TAGGART AND THOMAS PLEAD GUILTY AND THE PRISON PENALTY IS REMOVED.

A VICTORY FOR THE GOVERNMENT

Case in the Courts Two Years and the Defendants Had Been Proven Guilty—Fined and Sentenced to Jail.

Kansas City, Jan. 25.—George L. Thomas, a freight broker of New York city, and L. B. Taggart, his clerk, pleaded guilty in the United States district court here today to the charge of conspiring to pay rebates to shippers.

Judge Smith P. McPherson then fined Thomas $7,000 and Taggart $4,000, omitting the jail sentence as previously assessed. Both defendants were in court and after sentence was passed, checks covering the fines were tendered and accepted by the judge.

This ends the case against these men. It was one of the most important rebate cases ever tried in this country and the jail sentence, which was omitted today, was the first sentence of imprisonment ever passed for a similar offense.

In the first part of the case two years ago the men were found guilty and Thomas was fined $6,000 and sentenced to four months in jail. Taggart was fined $4,000 and sentenced to three months in jail. In consideration of the mission of the sentence in Thomas's case the judge raised his fine to $7,000.

"I don't think the jail sentences," he said, "will be a reason that both men have to serve for more than a few months in jail."

Saloonmen Still Vigilant.
The government's position in this case, Leslie Lyons, the states attorney, said, is a great many more than the government.

Huntington, a saloonman, after February 1, believes the practice of rebates has ceased and for that reason cases have not been brought.

ROAD DISTRICT ELECTION
All Old Work to Be Finished Before New Work Is Begun.

There are some people, it appears, who labor under the belief that if the present six-mile road district is extended three miles in all four directions at the special election on Saturday, February 1, that new work will be taken up and pushed before work now under way is finished.

Such will not be the case, however. The county court, before consenting to call a special election, had the promises of all of the road superintendents in the district that no new work would be commenced before the old is completed, and this can be relied upon absolutely.

If you hear any one objecting to the extension of the road district on the ground stated above, advise him of his error, and refer him to the judges of the county court for corroboration.

Boyd Carroll, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Carroll, was taken violently ill with acute indigestion at his home Friday night, but Saturday was pronounced greatly improved. Dr. Heaton is attending him.

Wyatt Burk, another paper carrier for the Democrat-Sentinel, is also on the sick list at his home, Fourteenth and Lafayette avenue, suffering from fever.

FRAUD CHARGED AGAINST AN INVESTMENT COMPANY IN BIRMINGHAM.

PROMISED EXORBITANT EARNINGS

Suit Has Been Filed at Lexington, Kentucky, and It Is Expected the Evidence Will Be Sensational at the Trial.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 25.—A suit has been filed in the circuit court here by Benjamin M. Lanning, of this city, and others against the Standard Trust Co., of Birmingham, Ala., asking that a receiver be appointed.

The petition alleges the company contracted to so invest and handle earnings at compound interest that on every $1,000 there would be paid annually $795 interest, to cause each $1,000 to amount to $1,795 yearly, and pay all investors who did not procure loans $150 for every dollar paid in. All this was to be paid in eight years.

The petitioners charge these promises were fraudulent and false and made for the purpose of getting them to invest that the promises were a lottery and known to be false by the officers when they made such representations, and knew them to be impossible of performance. Juggling of the serial number of contracts also is charged.

The plaintiffs say the company is insolvent and has been for two years; that it owes $300,000 and has assets of only about $175,000 in several states where it has offices.

The company was incorporated under the laws of Delaware, with a capital stock of $500,000.

WHO IS THE MAN?
Question Is Asked Regarding the Hero of Great Play.

When Messrs. William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer produced Geo. Broadhurst's play of "The Man of the Hour" on December 6, 1906, in New York city, the success of the piece was well high sensational, and the managers as well as the author were overloaded with requests for information as to just who was the man of the hour in real life. Mr. Broadhurst was accused of having put such various persons into his play as Mayor McClellan, of New York city; Mayor Weaver, of Philadelphia; Mayor Becker, of Milwaukee; Governor Folk, of Missouri; Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and even President Roosevelt.

Mr. Broadhurst's reply in all cases was: "I tried to put none of these dignitaries into my play. What I did try to do, and what I think I have done, was to write a play that should tell a true love story—a story of how an idle but able young man was made to do his duty to himself and his people by the love of two women—his mother and the girl he wanted for his wife. If, in writing out this story to show how he succeeded I have seemed to reflect the career, in whole or in part, of this or that well known man of affairs, it is because I have been true to life, and not because I have taken any one of the men named for a model or prototype."

Jack London Is Safe.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 25.—Jack London, the famous author, and his wife, arrived here at 2:22 p. m. today on the steamer Mariposa from Tahiti. They left some time ago in a small craft on a cruise of the world, and had been reported as lost.

MISS MAGGIE McDADE THUS ATTIRED WHEN PICTURE WAS TAKEN.

PLUMP, SHAPELY, BURGLAR SAID

So Entranced With the Photograph He Dropped the Plunder He Had Gathered and Then Departed Without it.

Pittsburg, Penn., Jan. 25.—Maggie McDade, of 3435 Penn avenue, plump and shapely, has put in most of the time since yesterday morning blushing at the nerve of a burglar, who, it appears, found her picture in a bathing suit so winning that he forgot a world of jewels which he had gathered up to take with him, and escaped only with Maggie's picture.

The "Raffles" for whom the police are now looking was evidently somewhat of a Chesterfield, as he left a note addressed to the original of the picture.

Police Inspector Robert Gray has the note and is trying to find the burglar by the handwriting. The note is understood to read as follows: "Dear Miss: I couldn't take this junk after seeing the photo. I have 'von the picture, however."

Maggie wishes she had had on longer skirts when she had the picture taken. There are quite a few persons living in that house whose jewels had been gathered by the day-burglar, but he dropped them, too, when he came on that photo of Maggie in her bathing suit.

T. P. A. HAD SMOKER
Splendid Entertainment and Delightful Refreshments.

The local post of the T. P. A. enjoyed a most pleasant social at the Elks' club rooms last night, at which were present nearly all the membership, as well as a good delegation from St. Louis.

A delightful lunch of baked turkey, dressing, pickles, and drinkables was served, after which a vaudeville entertainment and impromptu talks were enjoyed. R. C. Combs acted as toastmaster and he was ably assisted by H. H. Hawkins, president of the Sedalia post.

The entertainment were P. P. Barker, Col. George W. Smith, chairman of the national board of directors of the organization; R. S. Fairchild, H. W. Knight, sr., John P. Givings, of Kansas City, Hon. J. L. Babcock, Chas. P. Elliott, of "The Man of the Hour" company; W. A. Chatterton, A. H. Bush, state director T. P. A.; George H. Scruton, Dr. W. G. Cowan, F. E. Hoffman, local secretary, and W. J. Riley. The specialties were furnished by Manager Hoxie and members of the Unique Theater company.

The guests from St. Louis who attended the entertainment were Col. George W. Smith, chairman of the national board; F. E. Ehler, F. Hoag, state chairman of claims committee, and A. H. Bush, state director.

During the day and evening twenty new applications for membership in the order were received.

A MONDAY WEDDING
Many Out of Town Guests to Attend Thomson-Rhea Nuptials.

The Thomson-Rhea wedding at Orchardwood Place will be solemnized at the home of the bride's parents tomorrow afternoon. Elaborate preparations have been made for the affair.

Miss L. Berta Thomson, who is to act as bridesmaid, arrived from Chicago Friday; the groom and groom's father, both of Memphis, will arrive today. Among the invited guests of this city are the following:

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. John Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Edward May, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Thomson, Mrs. S. E. Cotton, Miss Maybelle Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Sturges, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Quisenberry, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Alspaugh and daughter, Miss Willa, who will be at home from the state university for the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. William O'Bannon, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Steele, Rev. and Mrs. F. Y. Campbell, the former being the officiating minister.

The Police Were Called In.

The police were called to the home of E. R. Adams, on East Third street, Friday afternoon, where a man under the influence of liquor was disturbing his wife's peace. There were no arrests.

The street report that Mr. Adams was assaulted and chased from his home, and that two police officers were defied by the lady with a revolver, is without foundation.

Will Celebrate Birthday.

On February 1, Chief of Police Boult will celebrate his birthday anniversary, but which particular one he refuses to state. "Jim" Can't emphatically denies that the chief is not over 30 years old.

THOUGHT HIM A BURGLAR
JURY ACCEPTED DEFENSE OF A MAN WHO SHO'T THROUGH DOOR OF HOME.

Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—After a trial of three days, Andrew Jackson Detsch, who was charged with murdering Harry Ferree in a boarding house in this city last November, was acquitted late yesterday afternoon.

Detsch, who is 23 years old, lived with his young wife and child in an up town boarding house. On the night of Nov. 5, on the third floor hallway, in front of the door of the Detsch apartments, policemen found Ferree dead, with three bullets in his body. He was in his stocking feet.

Ferree occupied a room on the second floor. Detsch told the policemen that he heard some one trying to get into the room and thinking it was a burglar he shot four times through the door.

The police contended that Detsch learned of alleged misconduct between his wife and Ferree, caused his wife to lure Ferree to her room, and fired the shots when he heard Ferree place his hand on the door knob.

NEW ELECTRIC LINE
Surveying Party Working on Proposed Line to Sedalia—Perhaps.

Surveying parties have been at work recently in the vicinity of the county farm, says Saturday's Kansas City Star. It is reported that they are surveying a route for a proposed electric railway between Kansas City and Lone Jack.

J. M. Patterson, presiding judge of the county court, said it would be objectionable to have an electric line near the new county hospital building. But he believed the county court would consider the proposition of permitting a roadway to be built across the northeast corner of the county farm.

It has been reported several times in recent years that an electric railway was to be built from Kansas City to Lee's Summit and thence south-east to Lone Jack, and perhaps to Warrensburg or Sedalia. Cole Younger, the ex-bandit, undertook to promote this railway, but the enterprise was not successful.

YOUNG MAN DEAD
John Shoemaker, an Employee of Missouri Pacific, Died Friday.

John Shoemaker, a former Missouri Pacific brakeman, recently of Cole Camp, died of stomach trouble at the boarding house at the corner of Pacific and Lamine streets at 10 o'clock Friday night, aged 23 years.

A brother, Henry Shoemaker, of Cole Camp, arrived Saturday afternoon and will take the body to Cole Camp this morning, where burial will be made.

INJURED IN GYMNASIUM.
Schuyler Pritchard, a 14-year-old boy, fell at the Central Business college gymnasium Saturday afternoon and painfully, though not seriously, lacerated his right leg. Dr. W. G. Cowan attended him.

TOP OF HEAD SHOT OFF

KILLING OCCURS NEAR DANCE HALL IN NEOSHO COUNTY TOWN IN KANSAS.

LOOKS LIKE COLD BLOOD MURDER

The Man Who Did the Shooting Was Former Pinkerton Detective in Kansas City—Defense Possibly Be Insanity.

Shaw, Kan., Jan. 25.—Frank Walker blew off the top of John McGown's head with a shot gun here Thursday night. After the shooting Walker was disarmed and shortly afterward was taken to Chanute, the county seat of Neosho county, and lodged in jail by Sheriff Ogg.

The affray occurred outside of a dance hall. Walker, it is claimed, had threatened to shoot and brandish a double barreled shot gun. McGown was merely a spectator.

As McGown started home he called out "Good night" to those remaining. Walker, who was standing near, is said to have remarked with an oath that he had a mind to shoot him. McGown's reply was, "All right, shoot away, then."

Walker fired, the heavy charge of buckshot entering McGown's mouth and coming out through the back of his neck. The two men were not more than six feet apart. Walker made no attempt to escape.

The dead man was born and reared in the vicinity of Shaw, and is well known over the country. Since his marriage about ten years ago he had been a hard working, industrious citizen. He was about 35 years of age and leaves a widow and two children.

Walker is comparatively a new resident in Shaw. He came here and rented a small house about a month ago. He is married but has no children, and claims to have been a member of the Kansas City police force. He is a man about 50 years of age and weighs about 300 pounds.

County Attorney Grigsby conducted the coroner's inquest Friday afternoon, and the verdict of the jury was murder at the hands of Walker. Walker's defense will probably be insanity.

Frank Walker worked for the Pinkerton protective patrol in Kansas City about three years ago at the race track, but was only in the city a short time and was not well known.

It is thought by members of that force that this is the same Walker, as the one who worked for them as of the same description and lived in Kansas.

WHAT IS THERE IN THIS?
Rumors of Changes on the Missouri Pacific Line.

Here's the latest rumors, hatched out in Missouri Pacific railroad circles, which are printed without verification:

E. A. Gould, general superintendent at Kansas City, goes to the Wabash railway as general manager.

General Superintendent W. J. McKee, at Coffeyville, Kas., goes to Kansas City as general superintendent, succeeding Mr. Gould.

Supt. J. E. Snelaker, of Coffeyville, goes up as general superintendent, succeeding Mr. McKee.

Supt. A. J. Alexander, of this city, goes to Little Rock and Supt. J. F. Sims, of Oswatimie, Kas., comes to Sedalia, succeeding Mr. Alexander.

COMEDY DRAMA AT LAMONTE
Young People Are to Present it Friday Night, February 7.

Several of the young people of Lamonte are rehearsing almost nightly for a comedy drama, "Farmer Haskins," which will be presented at the opera house in that city Friday evening, February 7, under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Aid society of the Christian church.

The proceeds will be used as a nucleus for a fund to be raised to erect a parsonage for the new minister of that church.

The cast of characters is an exceptionally strong one, and the play contains action and startling climaxes enough to provide an excellent evening's entertainment.

WANTS CANTEN BACK.

Major General Bell, chief of staff,
in his annual report just issued, declared himself of the opinion that the law which abolished the canteen from the army should be repealed for the general good of both the soldiers in the army and the war department officials. He says that under the new law there is more alcoholism and more disease than there was prior to its enactment. Among the many other interesting paragraphs in this report is the following, which is regarded as the most pertinent:

"Unless other great nations are wrong and wasting time and money, they are giving us an object lesson which Americans will have to learn some day by costly and humiliating experience. Time and training are both necessary to convert an untrained volunteer into a soldier, whether for infantry, cavalry, artillery, engineers or signal corps. The last great war clearly demonstrated that the side which is ready and acts promptly gains decisive advantages."

A DEMOCRATIC FINANCIAL BILL.

The democratic senators have suddenly decided to put in a financial bill of their own, after seeming to acquiesce in the general provisions of the Aldrich bill, now before the senate finance committee.

It is understood that Senator Bailey is the author of the bill, and it differs from the Aldrich bill in its provisions for the issue of United States notes instead of national bank notes in times of emergency, and changes the rate of interest to be paid by the bank with which the notes are deposited. Both are to be issued against deposits of government, state, county and municipal bonds, although the Aldrich bill also includes first mortgage bonds of railroads. There are some other variations in the proposed substitute for the Aldrich bill, but the foregoing is the principal difference between the two measures.

There is a bare possibility that the democratic senators will hold a caucus on the question of supporting their substitute, so as to secure the solid vote of the minority.

OFFICIAL STATISTICS.

The figures given out from the White House that Taft is certain of 521 votes in the republican convention, with more to come, may be found, after all, to be colored by the enthusiastic statisticians of the "tennis cabinet."

It would be rather extraordinary for a republican convention to nominate a candidate for president against the protest of New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, and other important states. The nomination of Taft can only be brought about by the votes controlled by federal officials in the south and west, and such endorsement of "my policies" and "my candidate" would hardly be a recommendation to independent voters and civil service reformers in the doubtful states.

The republican factional fight thus seems to be drifting in favor of the democrats, if they can get together on a candidate on whom the Bryan and anti-Bryan factions can agree.

ROOSEVELT ATTACKED.

Congressman Cook, of Colorado, attacks President Roosevelt and his land policy in a letter sent to the president, congress and the supreme court.

Although a republican, George Washington Cook must be a very undesirable citizen, for he declares Teddy to be impulsive and dictatorial, and inferentially puts Taft in the same boat.

Improvements at the City Hall.

The improvements in Chief of Po-

Both rooms have been repapered will begin work tomorrow repapering

and after that room is completed work on the police court room will be begun.

At the Unique Theater.

Something new and entirely different from anything heretofore played at the Unique will be presented this week, commencing matinee today in the one-act comedy success, "The Dog Catcher," which is presented by a company composed of Al J. Watson, Aline Wallace and Adelaide Keith and the unusually clever dog, Jack. The scene is laid in the apartments of Miss Dot Wise, a college girl, who is ably impersonated by Adelaide Keith.
The sketch shows the predicaments and ludicrous situations of Jack, the poundmaster, and the audience is kept in a roar of laughter at the many mishaps which befall him. Aline Wallace, who is the poundmaster's sweetheart, plays a prominent part in making him more trouble, and the act is a laugh from start to finish.

Harry Petterer, an accomplished ventriloquist, is most entertaining and there are no dull moments during his stay in front of the footlights.
Miss Wayne Clatts has several new songs, and the Uniqueodrama will show some excellent pictures.

Miss Altha Bryan, daughter of Mr.

will be united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents at 2

Rev. Richards, pastor of the Otter-

The tramp finally consented to tell the story.

"I was tramping one afternoon with a cold rain for company. To do so was contrary to my principles. When it rains, I usually hold up and wait for fair weather. But one must eat and lack of food had driven me from my nest. Besides, I had been 49 hours without morphine.

"Steadily I forged along through an unsettled country. I passed two or three people driving, but they merely glared at me and went on. As night fell I came to a house—a somewhat pretentious building set close by the road. It might mean shelter; or, if not shelter, food; or at least information. I knocked at the door.

"No one answered. I knocked again and again. I went to the back and knocked. No response! The house was still—still as desertion—or death.
"I am not a house-breaker. But consider my plight: I was in a country unknown to me; a cold penetrating rain was falling; I had not eaten for two days. Here was a dwelling, apparently deserted, though apparently not long deserted. Inside was shelter, warmth, perhaps food. I decided to break in.

"Drawing back, I threw myself heavily against the door and burst it open. In the hallway, facing me, stood a woman. The light was very faint, and I could scarcely distinguish her features, but I saw that she was young and was very plainly a lady.

"It is hard to guess which of us was the more frightened, but there is no doubt at all which was the more self-possessed. Looking back on it now, I can see design in all her acts, though they seemed natural enough at the time.

"Well, sir!" she said quietly. "Why did you not knock? Do you always enter a house like that?"

"Considering that I had been hammering at the doors for ten minutes this was surprising. Then I saw that she had a trumpet at her ear and was holding the end towards me.

"I put my lips to it. 'Pardon me,' I said. I did knock. No one came and I thought the house was deserted. I am cold, wet, lost, and hungry."

"I see. I have been asleep and did not hear you. Come in?"

"She stepped aside with a gesture of invitation, and I entered what was evidently the kitchen where I stood awkwardly in the gloom until she had found and lighted a lamp. 'Sit down, please,' she said, 'and I will see what I can get for you to eat. All the servants are away and I am alone in the house except for my little boy who is asleep upstairs, and so I must wait on you myself. But perhaps you would rather go to the dining room?"

"I shook my head, and she talked on and on. Heavens! How she did talk while she prepared my supper.
Like many deaf persons, she did not wait for an answer, but went straight on, passing without a break from one subject to another. I thought then, and I think now, that it was fear that drove her. It was not surprising. I was not one whom a lady would choose as a guest, alone, by night.

"I wanted to reassure her, but her deafness and her volubility stood in the way. Once or twice I tried to say something, but failed. Finally I gave it up. After all, the kindest thing I could do was to hurry away as soon as I had eaten; only my ravenous hunger prevented my doing so at once.

"Supper was ready at last, and I drew up to the table and began to eat. There was coffee, bread and butter, and steak; guess how I did justice to it.

"Remember I had had no morphine for 48 hours, and I needed it, oh, how I needed it. As I sat down to the meal my nerves were jumping, but before I had half finished, they had grown quiet. More, I had become drowsy. This should have warned me, but it did not. I lay back in my chair, closed my eyes, and went to sleep.

"I waked again, suddenly, startled
by the banging of the kitchen door.
For a moment I did not know where I was. Then I remembered.

"But when I looked at the table I doubted my memory. There lay the remains of my supper, but there also lay a revolver, and a purse, open, with money falling from it. The woman was gone.

"Gingerly I picked up the revolver and examined it. It was empty, except for two exploded shells. I put my finger into them and into the barrel. They had been fired recently. I examined the purse; it contained about $20.

"I stood, gaping, too much amazed to move. Then, suddenly, there came back to me the memory of my drowsiness. Why had I been so drowsy?
Food had never made me so before.
Suspiciously I lit my coffee cup.

Staple and Fancy Groceries

A Trial Order Solicited

GEORGE M. PEMBERTON

stared into its dregs and gingerly tasted them.

"Ah! there it was, unmistakable now that I was looking for it. Land-lum! I had been drugged. Doubtless, only my habituation to the kindred drug, morphine, had saved me from sleeping until my involuntary hostess had had time to summon aid
—for that she had gone for aid, I did not doubt.

"But why the purse and the revolver? Little time had I to waste, yet curiosity, stronger than fear, drove me on. I lifted the lamp and hurried with it through the house.

"On the parlor floor all seemed normal. On the first floor, in the first bed-room, was a crib, with rumpled covers. On the floor beside it lay parts of a child's clothing. Evidently it was the bed of the boy she had spoken of; she had carried him off with her.

"To the next room I hurried and there lay the explanation. On the floor was the body of a man—tall, handsome, well dressed—shot twice through the head, and stone dead. His pockets were turned inside out.

"I don't suppose I stood there half a minute, but it seemed hours. In one enlightening flash I saw the whole thing. I was to be the scape-goat.
Poor silly fool, I had butted in to bear
the burden of the crime.

"And oh! what a web was woven around me. I had been seen on the road near by by several persons; I had broken in the door; the child had probably seen me asleep in the kitchen; if I had not waked in time, the avengers would have found me red-handed with my booty and my weapon beside me, while, near by, lay my victim with his pockets turned inside out. I think it was those turned-out pockets that terrified me most.
The woman who could forge a link of evidence like that would not hesitate to swear my life away.

"Sick with terror, I stumbled down stairs, out of the house, and away into the night; away; away; anywhere, so long as it was out of sight of that deadly house. The shadow of the gallows lowered above me and drove me on.

"Luck favored me. A quarter of a mile from the house I came to a railroad track. As I reached it the rails began to hum. A train was coming, slowly, for it was on a heavy upgrade. With the first thrill of hope I jumped behind a tree and waited.
Nearer it came and nearer, slower and slower, until when it reached me it was going little faster than a trolley car in the city. To try to board it even then was dangerous, but not to board it was destruction. I jumped for a hand-hold between the two cars, caught it, and clung on. Half an hour later, when the engine stopped for water, I crept into a box car. Then away once more, away, away. Three days later I crawled out of that box car nearly a thousand miles away, but safe."

The tramp rose and picked up his bundle.

"That is all," he said. "The story,
as I warned you, is a snapshot and not a panorama. Of what happened afterwards I know nothing—could know nothing. The arm of the law is long and to make the smallest inquiry would have been madness. It is wisest to let sleeping dogs lie. Sir!
I thank you for your beer and I wish you goodby."

THEY LIVED TO EAT.

People of Olden Times Were Lovers of Good Feeding.

The antiquary took down a manuscript of vellum beautifully illuminated in gold and blue.

"Old recipes," he said. "A book of medieval recipes and menus that shows us what the monks, the priors and the abbots ate. Listen. Here is a Good Friday menu, a fast day, think."

And he read:
"Eggs with tansy sauce; good trout of large size stuffed with the buds of primroses; turbot in jelly of the quince; onions roasted with cloves; a soft pudding of milk and pigeons' eggs; a larded cheese of Italy, with tarts of quince and citron; Rhensish wine with many spices, and whey wherein pears have been stewed."

"Not bad for a fast day?" said the antiquary. "Here is a dinner for six,
a dinner that was served in the Abbey of Barking before Columbus discovered America:
"Baked mallard. Teals roasted on a spit. Almonds boiled in milk.
Roasted capon, with a syrup of honey and pears. Roasted leg of a calf, boiled herons, a small baked pig, set about with gilt, and with a citron in his mouth. Flesh tart with sauce of quince.

"Second Course—Roast hedgehog with jelly of pears. Venison well baked, with many apples. Almond and white wine pottage. Boar's flesh in soft pudding. Two cranes, with the gravy of a young kid. Partridge and curlew, with sauce of good syrup.

"Third Course—A peacock roasted with the grease of the pig's chops; set it out covered with its skin, with feathers on, many onions underneath him in the dish. Custard of cream and the eggs of hens. Also some small birds of all kinds, laid in good wine."

Tribute to Mamma.
Small Janette heard her mother and aunt talking of their voyage from the old country when they were children and how a terrible storm came up one night and almost sunk the ship with all on board. The next day Janette said: "Mamma, I'm awfully glad the ship you came over in didn't sink, for then I might have got a real cross mamma."

What everybody says must be true.
Then it is a fact that the "Pride of Perry" flour is the best.

THE STATE POULTRY SHOW

Columbia Tribune Doesn't Know That Sedalia Is to Get It.

Why shouldn't the state poultry show be in Columbia? Boone county has an enthusiastic poultry breeder as there are in any state, and outside of the state show and the state fair the best poultry show in Missouri this season.

The next legislature will be asked to erect a building wherever the state exhibition is held. The university will have its poultry department in full swing by that time. Columbia is accordingly the ideal and the logical location for the state show. The Commercial club and the poultry folks should get busy.—Columbia Tribune.

Sedalia undoubtedly stands the best show of getting the state poultry exhibition, but in the event it is not located here the Tribune will do well to keep an eye on Kansas City.

SALOON PROFITS FOR CHARITY

Coal Company to Operate One in Order to Keep Miners.

Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 25.—Holden, a mining town near here, will after February 1 have a saloon, the profits of which will be devoted to charity.

Representatives of the United States Coal and Oil company, operating at Holden, have been granted a license. Replying to protests, attorneys for the applicants stated it was not desired to operate the saloon as a money-making venture, but because it was impossible otherwise to keep miners, who would not stay where drink cannot be procured.

The attorney asserted the company had lost heavily on account of this condition and offered to enter into a written agreement to operate the saloon on a strictly business basis and to turn the profits over to such charity as the court might direct. This proposition was accepted, and the license granted.

being well attended and resulting in much good.

The society event of the past week was the entertainment given by Mrs. A. P. Wilson Thursday afternoon to the members of the Priscilla club and a number of invited guests. Mrs. Wilson's friends know her to be charming in any capacity, and particularly so in the role of hostess. The ladies comprising the Priscilla club are industrious to an unwonted degree, as is evidenced by the amount of fancy work accomplished at their meetings. After each had finished their self-imposed task, Mrs. Wilson, with the help of her sister, Mrs. J. O. Barbour, served a delicious lunch, the last course of which was served in the dining room, where Mrs. Barbour, Mrs. F. H. Tisdale and Mrs. J. T. Wilson presided. Interment was in Antioch Baptist cemetery, of which church deceased had been a member since early childhood.

FIFTY RUPEES EASILY MADE.

Tricky Indian Merchant Feared Inquisitive Stranger.

An Indian merchant wished to dispose of an old elephant and took it to a fair. As soon as he had arrived he noticed a man who, without saying a word, began to walk round the animal, examining it attentively on all sides. The merchant became very anxious, for he feared the man had found out that his elephant was not worth much. He took him aside and whispered in his ear: "I see a customer coming. Do not say a word until I have sold the beast and I will give you 50 rupees." The man looked at the merchant and wonderingly complied with his request. It happened that the customer had more money than sense, so that he was easily taken in. When the bargain was completed and the elephant led away by its new owner, the merchant handed the 50 rupees to the silent man, saying: "Now, I want you to tell me how you discovered the defect in his left leg. I thought I had concealed it so skillfully." "I have discovered nothing," replied the stranger. "It is the first elephant I have ever seen, and I wanted to know which was the head and which was the tail." —Exchange.

One of Sedalia's Big Furnishing Houses for Men and Boys

Main Street Clothing and Shoe Store Has Grown to Its Present Proportions in Six Years—Now Occupies All of the Smith Building at 105-107 West Main Street.

The above is a very recent picture of the Globe clothing store at 105-107 West Main street, one of the recognized leading furnishing houses for men and boys in Central Missouri.

The Globe is only six years old. It has had a very rapid and remarkable growth. It started in a small room—a space partitioned off in the building it now occupies—and grew and expanded until it filled the entire building, both upstairs and down. This was accomplished in a little over four years and a half, and the Globe today is one of the largest establishments of its kind in Central Missouri.

Mr. A. Chasnoff is proprietor of the Globe. He is energetic and his thrift and enterprise has built up a business that he can justly feel proud.

The methods pursued by Mr. Chasnoff in the conduct of his business have played an important part in making the store the success it is. He buys and sells for cash, thus getting his discounts which enables him to offer his goods at reasonable prices. His stocks are varied, thus making provision for the masses, and no matter what kind or style of garment, head or footwear may be desired, it can be found at the Globe and the prices that prevail appeal strongly to public appreciation.

For the more particular a specialty is made of the famous Schloss Bros. clothing for men and young men, and in the shoe department such well known brands as the Hamilton & Brown and the Brown Shoe Co.'s are found. The latter company has appointed the Globe its exclusive selling agents for this community.

The guarantee of Schloss Bros. and the Brown Shoe company should be sufficient that standard goods are sold there, but in addition to this the Globe's stamp "Your money's worth or money back" is back of every sale and is strictly adhered to.

The Globe's special sales are another important feature in the conduct of the store. About twice a year extra special sales are put on to clear out surplus stocks made necessary by the constant changing of styles and seasons. Just now a crowning feature, and one that is growing in popularity, is a special sale for each week, when some one line in the store is offered at a very low price. These sales last one week, beginning on Monday and ending the following Saturday night. Mr. Chasnoff announces these special sales every Sunday morning in the Democrat-Sentinel and lives up to every assertion he makes in his advertisements.

Another feature that must not be overlooked is the window displays. The windows are spacious and afford ample room to make the most attractive displays, which win admiration from all who pass.

Mr. Chasnoff's assistants include Mr. C. M. Rucher, Marlon Kennedy and Joseph Chasnoff, who are obliging and courteous gentlemen and are ever ready to serve the best interests of both patron and employer.

The Globe is not through growing; in fact, some improvements are being planned or are under way almost every month or so. It is such enterprise that wins, and a better and brighter future for the Globe is bound to come.

ROMANCE ENDS IN HAPPINESS.

Childhood Sweethearts Meet at New Orleans and Are Married.

A romance which began in their native land when both were children, and long before they dreamed of coming to America to seek their fortunes, culminated in the wedding of Antonio Hervatin and Joana Rumin of Pajin, Austria, says the New Orleans Picayune. They came over on the Sofia Hohenberg. Antonio is a farmer, and he came to look for land which he could cultivate and later build a home upon. Joana came to New Orleans expecting to obtain employment as a servant; but when the time came for them to part at the ship's side it was more than Antonio could stand and harder than Joana had dreamed, and then it was that love asserted its rule, and they decided to cast their fortunes together. Stephen Jozsa, assistant secretary at the state immigration bureau, went with them to the St. Louis cathedral, where they were made man and wife by Mons. Laval. Radiant as children in their new-found happiness, bride and groom left for Laurel Hill, in West Feliciana, where they were taken by Miss Stuart to work on the sugar estate of Mr. Henry Stewart.

The Fool of the Family.

Primogeniture had engaged so much of a young American's hostile attention that his companion, who happened to be the heir to an earldom, felt constrained to apologize for it. "It has its advantages," he said, mildly; "it makes but one fool in a family, you know." "All my younger brothers amount to something, as you Americans put it," he further explained. "One of them is in the army, another in the navy, and the third lives and works in the east end of London."—Youth's Companion.

Had Chaffing Dish Party.
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hitch enter.

PROOF THAT OYSTERS HAVE BRAINS.

William R. Travers, the famous stammering New York wit, once met at dinner a pompous Englishman who was "doing" the States. He had letters a plenty attesting his importance—letters from Gladstone, Dilke, Salisbury and Churchill. He had talked everybody tired before the dinner began, and Travers saw visions of a bad meal when he discovered the Englishman to be his neighbor at table. There was never a stop to the fellow's tongue. When the oysters were brought on he began: "Now, it is a question whether or not the oyster has brains; scientists dispute the idea." "T-t-t they certainly have some," retorted Travers. "Your proof, sir," challenged the Briton, eager for argument. "Wah-ah-why, sir, the o-o-oyster knows h-h-ha-how to shut up."

Not a Reformer.

"I should think you could easily show the errors of your political opponents," "Perhaps," answered Senator Sorghum, "but if I should convince them they would simply adopt my suggestions without giving me any credit for them. The opposition's mistakes are a part of my capital."

Took Machine East Last Night.

F. H. Brinkerhoff, of the Postal Vending company, and wife, left last night for Washington, D. C., where the former will give his stamping machine a test in the postoffice department. Mr. and Mrs. Brinkerhoff will also visit New York while absent.

SLOT MACHINES MUST GO

Five Thousand Chicago Saloonkeepers to Put Them Out.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Music and slot machines will disappear next week from 5,000 Chicago saloons by order, not of the police, but of officials of the saloonkeepers' organization.

Closer observance of the Sunday closing ordinance has also been commanded, and drawn shades and unlighted windows advised for Sunday.

successful in maintaining a cannery, as the land in that locality is very rich and productive.

LIVES IN SEDALIA AGAIN

PROF. BEN DAWSON INSTRUCTOR OF TELEGRAPHY AT CENTRAL BUSINESS COLLEGE.

INSTITUTIONS HAVE CONSOLIDATED

Missouri School of Telegraphy Becomes a Part of Central Business College—New Department Has New Equipment.

This institution consolidated the first of January with the Missouri School of Telegraphy, of Warrensburg, Mo., and Prof. B. Dawson was elected as principal.

Prof. Dawson needs no commendation. Where he is known he is recognized as one of the most able instructors in telegraphy by the principal railroad systems of the west. Prof. Dawson has the highest commendations from the C. & A., the Wabash, the B. & O., Missouri Pacific and M., K. & T. railroads. He was chief train dispatcher on the Missouri Pacific for several years, and is a man possessed of the most sterling business integrity, regular moral and industrious habits, and is an ideal teacher with whom to place a girl or boy.

The pupil who is placed with Prof. Dawson in the Sedalia Telegraph school will not only be kept busy at railway office work during school hours, but his morals and habits will be looked after.

The Sedalia School of Telegraphy has been fortunate indeed in securing Prof. Dawson as its teacher. His many friends in Sedalia are delighted to know that he has moved his family here from Warrensburg, and will now make Sedalia his permanent home.

The telegraph departments of the different roads of the west have the most implicit confidence in Prof. Dawson's ability to prepare the highest grade telegraph operators, which insures every graduate to be placed on the road in charge of an office as soon as he has finished the course.

The main line wires from the railroad run into the Sedalia Telegraph school, which gives the advanced pupils the advantage of receiving the messages that pass over the railroad wires. This gives them the same drill in railroad business that they would get if they were in an office on the railroad.

The Sedalia Railway Business College and School of Telegraphy have been newly furnished with golden oak tables with glass partitions, coupon ticket case, switch board and spring jack, in fact everything that is necessary to make the student competent in office work and telegraphy.

Every graduate is guaranteed a position.

PROMINENT STOCKMEN OF PETTIS COUNTY GIVE THEIR EXPERIENCE.

AN EXPERIMENT STATION BULLETIN

It Was Issued by Dean H. J. Waters, of the Agricultural College, and is of Interest to Every Missouri Stockman.

The Missouri experiment station at Columbia has just issued a very elaborate and handsomely illustrated bulletin on the most successful methods of fattening cattle, by Dean H. J. Waters.

This bulletin summarizes the experience and conclusions of about 1,000 of the most successful cattle feeders of Missouri, Illinois and Iowa, and contains also a summary of the results of a large number of tests with different kinds of feed, the best sort of shelter, the market demands, the sort of roughness, etc. It is illustrated with cuts of different types of beef cattle, including excellent illustrations of the fat steer herd exhibited by the college this season at the interstate fair, at Kansas City; the Missouri state fair, Sedalia; the American royal, Kansas City, and the international live stock exposition, Chicago. These steers won nine championship prizes, seventeen first prizes, sixteen second prizes, seven third prizes and two fourth prizes. Every steer won at every show, excepting one steer at one show.

The experience of the following well known cattle feeders of this county is given:

J. L. Warren, Sedalia; V. T. McCurdy, Georgetown; P. J. Donahoe, Dumbville; Adolph Riecke, Manila; Charles Dimp, Lamotte; F. H. Tuck, Houstonia; W. E. Taylor, Longwood; F. C. Hogman, Houstonia; G. S. Fleming, Lamotte; E. H. Berry, Houstonia; J. L. Cartwright, Longwood; J. R. Wade, Lamotte; B. W. Gorrell, Thornleigh; William Martin, Green Ridge; D. W. Wade, Lamotte; E. A. Petty, Sedalia; J. F. Howe, Ionia; George Wolfe, Lamotte; Bing Porter, Beaman; G. F. Boatwright, Wanamaker.

The bulletin is for free distribution, and may be had for the asking by any farmer or citizen. The station has other bulletins for free distribution on such subjects as cowpeas, alfalfa growing, the most profitable way to winter cattle, etc.

CAUSE OF NERVOUS BREAKDOWN.

Profession of Dressmaker a Toil That Kills in the End.

"These are the reasons, and they only are suggested—that thousands of our dressmakers are ill every year with nervous prostration; that as many more go to the wall and give up work; that none of them ever make a competence, although their work should assure it.

"It is the general outline of the reasons that I, Anne Bannerman Sedgewick Hitt, at 38, am at the end of my string and have reached a parting of the ways in which I know not how to turn, or what to do next. That I, a fine looking woman, as you see, with a speaking voice that once would have gotten me a place upon the stage, and with a hundred letters telling of my worth and skill, can think of nothing better to do next than to try to get a job of demonstrating until I can get away from the octopus of the composite woman who wants clothes made. And yet I love my work, and don't know how I shall do without the long evenings, as well as days of thought and toil for which I have given up social life and recreation for 18 years."

HAD STORED MONEY IN HOUSE.

Industrious Bees Had Hive Between Floors of Dwelling.

For several years Patrick Prendergast of Abington, Pa., lived in a house along the Old York road, not knowing that a swarm of bees also considered it their home. The swarm hived between the first and second floors, directly beneath the beds occupied each night by Prendergast and his family. The house where Prendergast lived, with a really safe, passed into possession of John Lambert, Jr., a prominent Philadelphian, with a country place at Abington. In line with projected improvements, Lambert arranged to have the house moved back from the present foundations, preliminary to having it remodeled, the structure being more than 100 years old.

Workmen discovered the presence of the bees, and an apiarist employed to remove the swarm found more than 200 pounds of pure honey between the second floor and the ceiling of the first. It being assumed that Mr. Lambert took title to the honey with the house, the honey was turned over to him.

Selected Her Own Coin.

This curious incident of travel in Africa is told by A. Henry Savage, London: "I wished to buy a bag of grain, but the woman who owned it would on no account accept silver money for it, nor any article which she saw in my camp. My Somali servant had a bright idea—the only one he had during the entire journey across Africa. He went to one of the boxes of provisions and tore off a highly colored label from a corn beef tin. Having licked it copiously, he stuck it in the middle of his forehead. Inquisitive, like a woman, the Carayu asked him what he did it for. The Somali said he had been seized with a violent headache and the colored paper was a certain cure. The Carayu at once offered the grain if the Somali would part with the magic paper. Her wish was satisfied without delay and the woman departed happy."

WIDOWS WARN THE MEN

THIS IS LEAP YEAR, AND THERE WILL BE MARRIAGES GALORE AT VINTON.

UNLESS THE "ELIGIBLES" HIDE OUT

Iowa Town of Only 3,000 Population Where There Are 200 Widows, All of Whom Are Dead Set for Husbands.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 25.—Vinton, Iowa, makes the claim to having more widows than any city in the world with a population of 3,000. But that is not all, for these widows have issued public notice through the Vinton papers that they propose to make the most of leap year.

All widowers and bachelors of Vinton are warned to be on their guard, for the widows intend to make such a "killing," as has never occurred since the days of the big flood.

This is the way the widows gave notice this week of what they intend to do:

"Dear Editor: Did you know that Vinton is full of handsome widows? And some of them are well to do. This is leap year, and the widows intend to get out and look for men. We have a few widowers, but they are afraid to look at the women, for fear the people will talk."

This open letter appeared in a Vinton paper. The editor began an investigation and discovered, he says, that there are more than 200 widows in Vinton.

It is claimed they are holding meetings and that they intend to plan a campaign such as was never known before and which will result in a wholesale thinning out of the lonely ones.

The result of this unusual crusade is being watched with the greatest interest throughout Iowa. There are no reports as yet that any of the Vinton widowers have taken to the woods.

GOOD WORK AT C. B. C.

OPERATIONS OF CENTRAL BUSINESS COLLEGE BRIEFLY EXPLAINED.

PRATICAL TESTS FOR STUDENTS

Commercial as Well as Shorthand and Stenographic Students Undergo Thorough Drilling by Prof. C. W. Robbins.

The students are growing more enthusiastic every day.

A number of pupils have been graduated the past week, and received their diplomas.

Our examinations are thorough and practical, but not technical nor too rigid. We test the pupil's practical working knowledge, and if he can pass he receives a diploma, and when he does receive a diploma he may rest assured that it will be a passport to a good position wherever the reputation of Central Business College is known.

Our work in the business department is actual business from the time the pupil enters school until he is graduated. No theory, no copying, no key to work to, no two pupils get the same results. Every pupil stands on his own merits and must understand the subject and be able to keep a set of books before he can possibly graduate. Every pupil receives thorough drill in expert accounting before leaving the college, that is, he takes books that are out of balance, and in every way mixed up; untangles them, gets off trial balances and balance sheets, finds the mistakes and corrects them. The pupil has so much to learn about practical work before he can make himself useful to a business firm and earn a good salary, and it is very much cheaper for him to learn it in school than to have to learn it at the expense of his employer after taking a position.

The shorthand graduate from Central Business college must take a thorough office drill under C. W. Robbins' personal instruction, where he takes charge of the office work, becomes thoroughly familiar with the details of the same, and can get out mail with neatness and dispatch; just as it is dictated.

The practical studies that are necessary for a foundation on which to build a business success are taught in both the shorthand and business courses. Practical examinations are required in these studies. A grade of 90 is required in spelling and penmanship and 85 in the other studies.

The Central Business college reading room does much to encourage and assist the pupil in getting a good vocabulary of practical words. Every pupil is encouraged to read newspapers and magazines in which he gets familiar with the practical words in everyday use. He is encouraged to carry his vest pocket dictionary with him at all times and refer to it when he hears or sees a word the meaning of which he does not understand, and become thoroughly familiar with the spelling of all practical words that are not familiar to him.

A stenographer in the proper sense of the word means far more than one who can make debits and credits, take off trial balances and balance sheets, and it is largely from the fact that Central Business college has rigidly held to this higher development that enables its pupils to receive positions at from 50 to 75 per cent higher salaries than are received by the graduates of most of the other business colleges.

AN EXPLANATION IS ASKED

OF GOVERNOR HUGHES, OF NEW YORK, REGARDING APPOINTMENTS.

THE CORRESPONDENCE WITHHELD

It is Alleged That New York Trainmen and Firemen Are Not Represented in the House Service Committees.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25.—Resolutions were adopted by the legislative board of the State Brotherhood of Railroad Firemen and Enginemen, in annual session here this week, requesting Governor Hughes to explain why that organization was not represented in appointments to either of the two house service committees.

Neither the members of the organization nor the railroad would give out the correspondence that is said to have passed between them.

The governor admitted that he had received a copy of the resolutions, and had sent a letter in reply. He felt that if the matter was to be made public it should come from the labor organization.

It was said that the governor's reply to the railroad men was similar to the letter sent some time ago on the same subject to the General Federated union, of New York city. In that letter the governor explained that in making the appointments he took into consideration the interests of people at large and selected such men as he thought would best serve the public interests, including those of the workmen.

The fact that the members of the board did not make their annual call of respect upon the governor was taken as an indication of their displeasure.

MANIAC SOUGHT GOVERNOR

Invaded a Girl's School in Search of Delaware's Executive.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 25.—There was great excitement in the girls' dormitory of the Wilmington conference academy at Dover yesterday, when Henry I. Singer, of Wilmington, armed with a revolver, rushed into the place searching for Governor Lea.

Singer, who is demented, shouted at the top of his voice: "Where is Governor Lea. I have important business with him. I must see him."

Fifty girl students locked themselves in their rooms and from behind their doors yelled for help.

The man was arrested and a pistol with five cartridges was found in his possession.

A LOSS OF SLEEP TELLS

DRIVES THOUSANDS TO WALK THE STREETS AND MAKES THEM INSANE.

THIS IS CLAIM OF A SPECIALIST

Dr. Pettyjohn, Who Has Had Wide Experience in Sanitariums, Gives Information That It Is of General Interest.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Thousands of persons are insane in hospitals and sanitariums and many others are walking the streets on the verge of insanity on account of the loss of sleep, according to Dr. Elmore S. Pettyjohn, a specialist on nervous diseases, who spoke at the Reformed Episcopal church before several hundred followers of Bishop Fallows and "Christian Psychology."

Insanity, worry, nervous prostration, despondency and many other ills were laid to sleepless nights by Dr. Pettyjohn.

"Twelve years' experience in sanitariums in Kankakee and other cities had taught him that most of the incurable raving maniacs had once been 'night owls,' sleeping only five to six hours each night."

"That statement of Edison's," said Dr. Pettyjohn, "about some time in the future people will be able to do without sleep altogether is the rankiest nonsense."

"Instead of doing without sleep, I want to say right here that people in all large cities are becoming nervous wrecks because they do not get enough sleep."

KANSAS BANKER A SUICIDE

Bondsmen Had Surrendered Man and Sec Him Kill Himself.

Great Bend, Kas., Jan. 25.—W. Leo Bockemuhl, cashier of the suspended Bank of Ellinwood, Kas., who was under arrest, charged with making a false statement of the bank's condition in December, shot and killed himself last night.

The suicide took place at the home of Bockemuhl in Ellinwood. He had given bond to appear in court next Saturday. His bondsmen had surrendered him, and had called to notify him of their decision.

They were leaving and had reached the gate when Bockemuhl called. "Wait a minute." They turned and saw Bockemuhl shoot himself in the head and fall dead on the porch.

The Bank of Ellinwood was founded by Bockemuhl's father twenty-three years ago, and had been considered a strong institution until lately, but is alleged to have been mismanaged.

ALMOST GIVE GOODS AWAY

Flower-Barnett Make Astounding Offer for Monday.

Attention is called to the very liberal offer made by the Flower-Barnett Dry Goods company in its advertisement on page five of this morning's Democrat-Sentinel. This firm has made some very remarkable special sales in its time, but the one announced for Monday is without doubt the most stupendous in its history. After several weeks of invoicing the firm finds that the year just closed was a highly satisfactory one, far exceeding their expectations, and it is because of this and also a desire to clear the remaining stocks, as well as to permit their patrons to enjoy the fruits of the year's harvest, that the very exceptional offer is made. The magnitude of the offer can be realized when it is stated that the trimmings of the garments, buttons, braid, etc.—cost more than the whole garment is offered for on Monday. It is indeed rare that such opportunities confront a community and patrons will not be slow to see its full value and take advantage of it.

Nurses Dread Lightning.

Of all people who are glad when the season of thunderstorms is past, none are more thankful than professional nurses. "It isn't that we are so afraid of lightning ourselves," said a hospital nurse, "but it has a harmful effect on our patients. Most sick people have an unreasonable fear of lightning. In cases of extreme weakness or nervousness a dozen flashes of blinding lightning reduces the patient to such a state of prostration that it takes extraordinary efforts on the part of the nurse to bring him around. If one sick person requires all that extra attention in a thunderstorm, just imagine the predicament of the nurse who has a whole ward full of them on her hands."

ENJOYED THE MEDICINE

COUNTY OFFICIALS WERE VISITED BY A FAIR VENDOR OF HEALTH RENEWER.

ALL OF THE MEN TOOK A SAMPLE

On Some It Worked Like a Charm, and Each Professed to Have Received Much Help Even From Small Dose.

A stylishly dressed girl of the brunette type, chic from the toes of the dainty French shoes to the ostrich tip of her Paris hat, representing a Terre Haute, Ind., medicine house, arrived in Sedalia Saturday and registered at the Hickins house.

After visiting the city and county authorities, inquiring about a license, she proceeded to the court house, where she began in a charming manner to explain her mission to County Treasurer Ware.

Newt Sprecher, the eagle-eyed sheriff, who is always alert on such occasions, was attracted to the treasurer's office on "business" and manifested a keen interest in the lady's talk.

Uttering her words so swiftly that the two men could not get in a word either way, the fascinating commercial tourist managed to dispose of one bottle of her medicine to Mr. Ware. The sheriff was backward about buying the "dope" and mentioned the fact that he was a Missourian and would have to have a sample.

The lady daintily prepared a dose and administered it to Mr. Sprecher, according to directions. The sheriff had no sooner emptied the vial when he remarked, "I feel better already."

By this time the remaining number of county officials had heard of the lady's appearance and attracted by her charm managed to secure a place in the office. Collector Sullivan, Deputy Hanley, Recorder Morey, Deputy Scott, Deputy County Clerk Imhoff, Assessor Brown and Probate Judge Kennedy came pouring into the room stealthily but not unnoticed, and to each of the above named the young lady administered a sample.

All agreed that the medicine was above what it was advertised, and the young lady, after bidding the party of admirers adieu, departed, leaving the men much wiser and much healthier than they were before.

For Men Only.

A talk by Evangelist Andrews at 3 p. m. at the M. E. church, South, today. Men and boys over 15 years of age invited. This will be a talk along the line of right living, and those who heard Mr. Andrews talk to women are confident that there is something worth hearing for the men. Let every man who can hear this talk. Tonight Mr. Andrews preaches his last sermon and closes the meeting which has been fruitful of so much good.

Last night Mr. Andrews preached on "Lost and Found," and three were converted at the altar.

This makes a total of 95 professions since the meeting began, and many others have been benefited. In fact, this is the greatest meeting that has been held in Sedalia in years. Come early.

MODERN WORK WILL NOT LAST.

Newspapers and Books Printed To Day Have Short Lives.

"The men who wrote history on tablets of stone in ages gone had a difficult task to perform, and had to cultivate the habit of brevity," says a writer in a German paper, "but what they wrote was preserved. It will be different with the newspapers and books of the present time. The paper upon which they are printed will disintegrate in a few years, and the records, historical, scientific and literary, will become dust. I saw two papers last week which told the whole story. One contained an account of the death of Napoleon Bonaparte. It was printed in 1821, was in a state of perfect preservation, and looked as though it might last, with ordinary care, a hundred years. The other paper was kept because its leading article described the surrender of Sedan, which had taken place a day before. Although it had been printed nearly 50 years later, the Sedan paper had to be handled carefully to prevent its tearing in the creases. One of these papers was printed on old-fashioned paper, and the other on the modern kind. With the two specimens before me I cannot refrain from urging once more that a few numbers of all books and newspapers, enough for all first-class libraries, be printed on good paper for the benefit of those who will live after us."

Lest you forget, we say it again; it is impossible to make better flour than "Pride of Perry."

It is rather an exceptional day when this newspaper does not print a classified advertisement that is worth a dollar a line to somebody. And, in most cases, that "somebody" might as well be you.

Perhaps in a half dozen lines there is a real estate opportunity advertised which—if you could take full advantage of it—would, in a few months, yield you a profit equal to a very big ad. at a dollar a line. Perhaps a few lines of type offer you an opportunity to secure a better job—and that ad, surely, would be worth a dollar a line to you!

Your "dollar-a-line" ad. may appear in almost any classification in the paper. It may be a three line ad, or a ten line one. It may be an offer of something or a quest for something. In any event, when you FIND IT your business instinct IDENTIFY IT—so that it is important that you lose no more time in looking for it!

RUMBLINGS OF THE RAIL

SIX ROADS WERE CONVICTED OF EVADING SAFETY APPLIANCE LAW.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

Six railway companies were found guilty in the United States district court in Chicago Friday of having violated the safety appliance law. The cases were heard by Judges Bethea and Landis, and the penalties assessed were as follows: Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railway, fined $200 and costs by Judge Bethea. Grand Trunk Western railway, fined $300 and costs by Judge Bethea. Belt Railway company, fined $200 and costs by Judge Landis. Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway, fined $100 and costs by Judge Bethea. Chicago and Northwestern railway, punishment suspended by Judge Landis, pending a motion for a new trial. Michigan Central railway, punishment suspended, pending a motion for a new trial before Judge Landis. In the cases against the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern and Belt line, the judges gave similar decisions, that although the lines of the roads are within Illinois, exclusively, the fact that they handled cars shipped from state to state made them carriers of interstate commerce within the meaning of the statute, and therefore rendered them liable to the operation of the federal safety appliance law.

Switch Shanties for Clinton.

H. P. Farris was in St. Louis the other day and while there met A. A. Allen, vice president of the M. K. & T. road, says the Clinton Democrat. Mr. Farris told him of the two watchmen at the crossings in Clinton, Dr. Joseph Hunter and Jerome McCoy, who were exposed shelterless to the vicissitudes of winter, and he pleaded their cause so eloquently that this morning he received a letter from Mr. Allen, stating that he had ordered two standard switch shanties, constructed in Clinton immediately.

Was Hit by Switch Engine.

A. Games, a Katy brakeman, was struck by a switch engine in the yards below Third street at 6:20 o'clock Friday evening and sustained painful bruises to both legs.

He was taken to the company hospital, where his wounds were dressed, and later removed to his home. His injuries are not dangerous.

He arrived in the city on the work train and was starting to cross the track when hit.

The ladies' auxiliary organization will also attend the convention.

New Working Hours at Shops.

Effective tomorrow, the working hours at the Missouri Pacific shops will be from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m., instead of 7 a. m. until 4 p. m.

The shops train having been abolished, a later hour for beginning work is fixed, as it is expected many men will walk to their work instead of paying car fare, while still others will seek employment elsewhere.

Katy Is Reducing Expenses.

WILL STONE BEAT FOLK?

SENIOR SENATOR APPEARS TO BE CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS.

WHAT HE TOLD NEW YORK REPORTER

"Thing to Do is to Beat the Governor, and I Think I Can," Says Hon. William J. Stone, With the Usual Clever Wink.

New York, Jan. 25.—Governor Folk's announcement that he is a candidate to succeed William J. Stone in the United States senate does not appear to disturb the senator from Missouri in the least.

Senator Stone was a guest of the Friar's club, an organization of theatrical men at a dinner given in honor of Augustus Thomas, the playwright, at the Hotel Astor last night.

When asked if he cared to say anything relative to Governor Folk's candidacy for his senatorial toga, Senator Stone said:

"I don't know what I can say. Governor Folk has a perfect right to aspire to the senate, and his announcement is entirely satisfactory to me. There is only one thing for me to do, and that is to beat the governor."

Then, with a smile and a wink, Senator Stone added in a tone that indicated supreme confidence: "And I think I can do that."

"TRUST" AGAIN INDICTED

Proceedings Against Combine Under Kentucky Anti-Trust Law.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 25.—The Franklin county grand jury has returned an indictment against the International Harvester company, of Milwaukee, charging that said company had combined with the McCormick, Champion, Deering and Osborne companies to regulate and control the prices on mowers, reapers, binders and other harvesting machinery.

The fine under the Kentucky anti-trust statute is from $1,000 to $5,000 for each offense.

"MADE" DIAMONDS GENUINE

Paris Dealer Declares He Sold Several to Mme. Lemoine.

Paris, Jan. 25.—There was a sensational development last night in the case of Henri Lemoine, the "diamond maker," which was being heard before an examining magistrate.

M. De Haan, a diamond merchant, testified that several of the diamonds which Lemoine gave to Sir Julius Wernher, of the De Beers Mining company, alleging them to have been manufactured, had been sold to Mme. Lemoine by De Haan.

MOTORMAN IS CONVICTED

New York, Jan. 25.—Paul Kelly, the motorman who was indicted for homicide in connection with the Ninth avenue elevated wreck, in which sixteen people lost their lives on September 1, 1905, was found guilty of manslaughter in the second degree last night.

The jury made a strong recommendation for mercy.

Death of an Infant.

An infant of Dr. J. D. Prowell, of Longwood, died Saturday and will possibly be buried today.

WILL GET A "JAG" JULY 4

Permission is Granted By a Judicial Decision.

Ware, Mass., Jan. 25.—George Mercier, of this village, will celebrate the Fourth of July by becoming hilariously "soused," permission to that effect having been granted by a judicial decision.

Mercier was recently brought before a local magistrate, charged with being drunk and somewhat disorderly. The court offered him the alternative of going to jail or signing a pledge to abstain from the flowing bowl for a period of one year.

Mercier protested that he could not properly celebrate his country's birthday while in such a beastly sober condition, and the judge allowed a compromise whereby Mercier promises to remain sober until July 4, when he may indulge as much as he pleases without being subject to arrest by the local police.

BOYCOTT RUINS A BUSINESS

Unions Destroy 75 Per Cent of a Manufacturer's Trade.

New York, Jan. 25.—A boycott placed against the brands of tobacco manufactured by the Day and Night Tobacco company in February, 1907, by the labor unions resulted in the company losing 75 per cent of its business, according to Walter G. Friedlander, president of the company, while testifying in the hearing on the government suit against the American Tobacco company.

At the conclusion of Mr. Friedlander's testimony the hearing was adjourned until February 6. On Sunday, counsel for the government and the American Tobacco company will leave for St. Louis and Louisville, where they will take testimony and make examinations.

NOT TIRED OF "RUBE"

Waddell Will Continue to Pitch for the Athletics.

Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—With vehemence "Rube" Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, denies the report that he is trying to lose the celebrated George Edward Waddell, otherwise known as "Rube." "Waddell will pitch for the Athletics, as long as I am their boss," says Mack.

TO MEET RAILROAD MEN

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HAS ARRANGED FOR A MEET-ING MONDAY.

CHANGES IN THE ARMY AND NAVY

Secretary Taft to Speak at land, O., Wednesday Night—
The American Breeders' Association to Meet.

New York, Jan. 25.—President Roosevelt will receive in audience Monday many of the operating chiefs of the leading American railroads, who will bring to his attention several matters which are alleged to have an adverse effect upon railroad operation and extension. It is expected that the conference will lead to important results in the matter of railway supervision and control. Governor Patterson, of Tennessee, will also meet with the heads of the railroads operating in that state, in the hope of reaching an amicable agreement on the question of a reduction of passenger rates. The conference will be held Monday in Nashville.

Several important changes will take place in both the army and the navy next week. Brigadier General Medore Crawford, who was appointed to that rank on January 3 by President Roosevelt, will retire for age Monday, and Brigadier General J. H. K. Davis, now in command of the department of the gulf, will retire Friday. Rear Admiral Robert M. Berry, until recently commandant of the naval station at Norfolk, Va., will retire for the age limit Tuesday.

The American battleship fleet is expected to reach its next stopping place, Punta Arenas, on the Straits of Magellan, Friday. It will be met there by the Chilean cruiser Chacabuco, which will pilot the vessels through Chilean waters.

Secretary Taft is slated for several speeches next week, most important of which will be the McKinley banquet at the Tippecanoe club in Cleveland on Wednesday night. On Saturday night he will speak at the annual banquet of the Ohio society of New York, when Governor Hughes is also expected to deliver an address. Governor Hughes will also speak at a meeting of the New York State Charities association in Albany on Monday, when a campaign will be commenced to wipe out tuberculosis in the Empire state.

One of the most important conventions of the coming week will be that of the American Breeders' association, of which Secretary James Wilson of the department of agriculture is president. The sessions will be held in Washington on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and will be addressed by some of the leading practical and scientific plant and animal breeders of the country. Another important meeting in the national capital will be that of the executive committee of the National Editorial association, which will convene Monday. The committee will likely enter a decided protest against the rulings made recently by the post office department in regard to second class mail matter.

Responding to a call by Governor Dawson, the West Virginia legislature will convene in special session on Tuesday. Thirty-seven subjects are named by the governor for consideration, the most important of which is an act to limit the amount of levies by public bodies.

In accordance with the proclamation by King Edward, the British parliament will meet in London on Wednesday, and will begin the consideration of many important legislative matters now agitating England. An event of interest to Americans will be the sale at auction Wednesday in London of the battle flag which once floated over the American man-of-war Chesapeake, before its capture by the British during the war of 1812.

The Chinese new year will be celebrated by Celestials in every city on next Saturday. The customary observances will mark the festival in the Chinese quarters of New York, San Francisco and other large cities of this country.

In sporting circles great interest will attach to the billiard and pool championships to be decided next week. The Sutton-Morningstar match for the 18.2 balkline billiard title will be played in New York on Monday, and the Heuston-Keogh contest

LIKE TALE OF EVANGELINE

Happiness Comes to Couple Separated
Forty Years.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 25.—After waiting forty years for each other, neither marrying in the interim, Jeremiah O'Neare and Helen Naughton, the former 70 and the latter 65 years of age, were married in Stamford.

O'Neare and his bride were sweethearts when the civil war broke out, and the patriotic Irishman enlisted. Hearing that her lover had been killed in battle, the heart-broken girl left her former home without telling of her plans for the future.

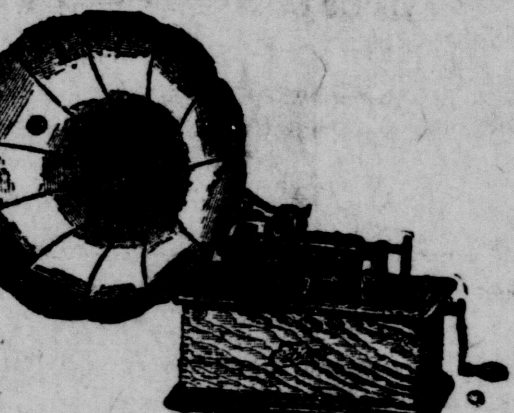

Returning from the war, O'Neare began a search for his sweetheart that lasted forty years before being crowned with success. He was delighted to find that Miss Naughton now an old woman, had remained true to his memory, and the wedding followed immediately.

IN THE SPORTING WORLD

MOTOR BOAT SHOW OPENS IN MECHANICS' HALL, 803-TON, TOMORROW.

THE MILITARY ATHLETIC LEAGUE

World's Pool Championship—Schreck-
Ross Battle—Battling Nelson
Again—Ready for the Great Billiard Match.

Boston Jan. 25.—Nearly all of the manufacturers of motor boats and engines in the United States have sent their newest models to the Boston National Motor Boat show, opening today in Mechanics' building. This show, being given as an individual exhibition instead of a part of the automobile show, surpasses in extent and interest all its predecessors. The motor boat has made great strides in popularity in New England during the last year, and manufacturers declare that they receive ten orders for motor boats to one for sailing craft. Many yachts are now being fitted with engines and it is predicted that the day of the pleasure craft provided only with sails will soon be past.

All types and designs of the new 1908 models of motor craft are shown, including elaborate cruisers, swift racing launches and moderate priced Jories. In view of the great popularity of motor boat racing, the speedy launches with high powered engines are the center of interest for those sportsmen who have become the devotees of the "autos of the sea."

National Champions to Meet.

New York, Jan. 25.—The 1200-yard relay race for the Military Athletic league championship, to be decided tonight at the indoor games of the Sixty-ninth regiment, promises to be one of the most hotly contested events of the season. Regimental teams of New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City have entered their crack men and the rivalry for the championship will be keen. Some of the athletic stars of the country are entered in the open events.

The greatest athletic carnival held in the United States this year, and a fitting starter for the season, will be the big meet to be held at Madison Square garden Monday night under the auspices of the Pastime Athletic club. With an immense field of starters entered, including several national trophy holders, the carnival has assumed the aspect of a national competition. A picked team of five men will represent the central west, and one will give the eastern athletes a run for their money. Among the entries are such men as Guy Haskins, the University of Pennsylvania crack; Ramey, the champion middle distance runner of the west; Melvin W. Shepard, who is willing to meet any man in the world in a race at from 600 to 1,000 yards, and Eli L. Parsons, the great Yale runner.

World's Pool Championship.

St. Louis, Jan. 25.—Thomas Hueston, present holder of the pool title, and Jerome Keogh, of Buffalo, will meet here Monday in a contest for the pool championship of the world. Hueston has twice defeated Keogh in defending the medal he now holds and is confident that he can repeat the operation. Keogh's friends say that he has made a great improvement in his style of play since he last met the champion and that he is now in form to get the medal. Both Hueston and Keogh have been practicing for the match by meeting all comers, and several close and exciting contests have resulted.

The pool championship will be followed on February 3 by a three day contest for the three-cushion billiard championship between Harry Cline and John Daly. Cline is the present holder of the beautiful diamond championship emblem donated by Jordan Lambert. The match will be at 150 points, 50 to be played each evening.

Schreck-Ross Battle.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 25.—The ten-round battle between Mike Schreck and Tony Ross, which was postponed from last Monday in order to allow more time for both men to get into shape for the mill, will take place here Monday night before the Southern Athletic club. This will be their second meeting, Schreck having

Battler is Dreaming Again.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 25.—Confident of easily defeating Kid Scaler, whom he will meet before McCarey's club in Los Angeles next week, Battling Nelson is already making plans for matches with other leaders in the lightweight division, preparatory to an attempt to regain his lost prestige in a battle with Joe Gans. Following his contest with Scaler, Nelson will probably next meet Boer Uhmolz here on Washington's birthday. If he wins in both these matches a fight will probably be arranged with Packy McFarland. In case he comes forth victorious from all these mills, the Battler will demand a match with Joe Gans, and declares that he is confident of his ability to "put it all over the old master."

Ready for Billiard Match.

New York, Jan. 25.—George Sutton and Ora Morningstar today completed their practice work for the 18.2 balkline championship match, which will be played in Lenox Lyceum on Monday evening. Both are confident of winning. Many wagers have been posted on the result of the contest.

ARE OLD-TIME GRAFTERS

Two Women Who Played Engagement Here Last Week.

Two women giving the names of Ethel and Alice Bridges were in Hannibal some days ago, says the Hannibal Post. They claimed to have been deserted by their husbands, who were brothers, and they came to Hannibal in search of their father, but learned that he had moved to Louisiana.

They were furnished transportation to Louisiana, but the authorities shipped them back. They then visited Iasco, Perry and Quincy, but apparently were never able to locate their father. They seem to have little trouble in "getting over the road," as they are now in Sedalia, and have been in several towns in that vicinity.

POINTERS FOR THOSE WHO ARE DESIROUS OF DRESSING REALLY WELL.

CATHERINE MANN-PAYZANT'S VIEW

Regular Weekly Letter for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers interested in the Latest Styles.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

New York, Jan. 25.—After the Christmas holidays are over and the new year with its lengthening days is come, the shops begin to open up the new cotton goods. Farseeing women today plan their wardrobes far ahead of time, and although it may sound strange, with the winter only begun, as you may say, yet this is the time to secure the most exclusive and beautiful designs for the spring or summer dress. Indeed, it has become customary for women to do this and styles and fabrics are in no guessing stage, thanks to what is called the "southern trade"—the designs and materials put on the market for those fortunate ones who can afford to go south during the winter months and thus set the styles for the earlier season.

It sounds almost trite to say the new cotton goods are pretty; but more and more are the designers and manufacturers paying heed to cotton goods, for such is our climate that they are four months out of the year more acceptable than any other material.

First come the chambrays from the heavier grades to those of a muslin like weight. Noticeable among these are those having tape stripes a quarter of an inch wide; many have solid colored grounds with white stripes; others have embroidered dots thrown over alternate stripes of blue and black, blue and white or green and white. Mercerized stripes are shown in all sorts of varieties, in which dots are popular, also swiveled figures of zigzag stripes; self colored invisible checks are shown over which a fine hair line stripes in black.

Especially attention has been given to the "mercerized" fabrics, which are almost as much sought for as silks and are certainly as pretty and more serviceable than some of the new softer silks.

For the children or women's morning or business dress, nothing comes in handier or is more useful than the new Gingham. They have a good body, launder well and are to be found in all shades from a very light tone to one that is decidedly dark. Mention should be made of the tan plaids in this material which are so well liked for children's dresses and many odd plaids and checks are shown which will be made up into suits and shirt waists for women; they will be plain in cut and finish and completed with white collars and ties and turn-over cuffs. For wear with a freshened-up gown, in the heavier weight they are particularly appropriate and bright for the early spring.

On a stormy day do not make the mistake of wearing "any old thing," but have one of those bright gingham waists and clean white accessories and you will be a pleasing object to your employer or whoever your lot may be cast with during that day.

The newer cotton voiles are of two varieties: the sheer voile, for evening or afternoon wear, and the heavy cotton sort, which is said to launder so well, and is serviceable for the light weight dress in the hottest days. Some of the voiles show dainty plaids and checks in rather dark shades which will preserve them from the wash tub for a long time. A pretty combination is a white voile hair lined or checked in black, strewn with dainty embroidered figures in red or pink or green.

There are many charming designs among the marquisettes, which range from 25 to 50 cents. They are nearly

SEDALIA THEATER.

"The Way of the Transgressor." The big scenic success, "The Way of the Transgressor," now in its fifth year of stage life, is announced for the attraction at the Sedalia theater tonight.

As plays go nowadays, generally good for one or two seasons, the longevity of "The Way of the Transgressor" seems remarkable, but its simple, wholesome plot, its multitude of strong emotions that keep heart interest always to the front; its superb handling of a story as old as civilization and as new as life; these are factors which make it likely that a play of its kind will never fail to get a hearing.

One of the principle features of the production is the introduction of nine Landseer dogs, who do all but talk, and assist in the development of the story.

"The Yankee Doodle Boy" Monday Night.

Bud Hicks, the central figure in Powell & Cohan's comedy drama with music, "The Yankee Doodle Boy," is a typical American youth who is an ardent believer in the strenuous life, as advocated by Mr. Roosevelt. Bud is in evidence almost every minute, and there is always "something doing" when he is on the stage. He is either indulging in a song and dance, voicing some pretty sentiment in the slang vernacular of the street or taking the part of some one unable to defend themselves. "The Yankee Doodle Boy" is an all American play, written for Americans who have rich, red blood in their veins, who like swinging music, tinkling airs and lots of action.

Kathryn Osterman Thursday Night.

One of the brightest and most novel farce comedies to be found in a year's watching of the passing shows is being played by a company supporting and including as clever a comedienne as could be seen in the same length of time. Miss Kathryn Osterman and "The Girl Who Looks Like Me" are both splendid, each joining with the other in making the evening go by without a single dull minute.

But, mind you, Miss Osterman is not the whole show. She has a capable company, including her famous sister, Anna Belmont, who has returned to the stage for a season. For this reason the audience is not let down from its height of good humor when she is out of the picture for a few minutes.

"The Man of the Hour."

"The Man of the Hour," George Broadhurst's new play, which has already been presented at the Savoy theater in New York for nine months will be seen here at the Sedalia theater on next Saturday matinee and night.

"The Man of the Hour" is reported to be a timely play, full of dramatic incidents, with plenty of comedy and telling a story of human interest.

It deals with one of the most burning topics of the day. The grafting of the political machine in many of the great cities of this country is the central theme of the story, the particular delineation being the passage through the city council of the town where the action of the play takes place of a bill giving a perpetual franchise to a street railway.

The mayor's signature is all that is necessary to make the bill a fact, and the "machine" has elected to the office, after a hard fight, a rich young man who they thought could be easily handled. He proves honest, however, and although all kinds of pressure is brought to bear, steadfastly refuses to make the proposed measure a law.

AT WOOD'S OPERA HOUSE.

Wood's Opera House Friday, Jan. 31 —Louis Morrison as "Mephisto." (From Daily Courier, Waterloo, Ia., Saturday, December 14, 1907.)

Louis Morrison, one of America's greatest actors, in the part of "Mephisto" in Goethe's immortal masterpiece, "Faust," was seen last night at the new east side theater, and the play with its natural strength and fine stage settings made a marked impression on all who were in attendance.

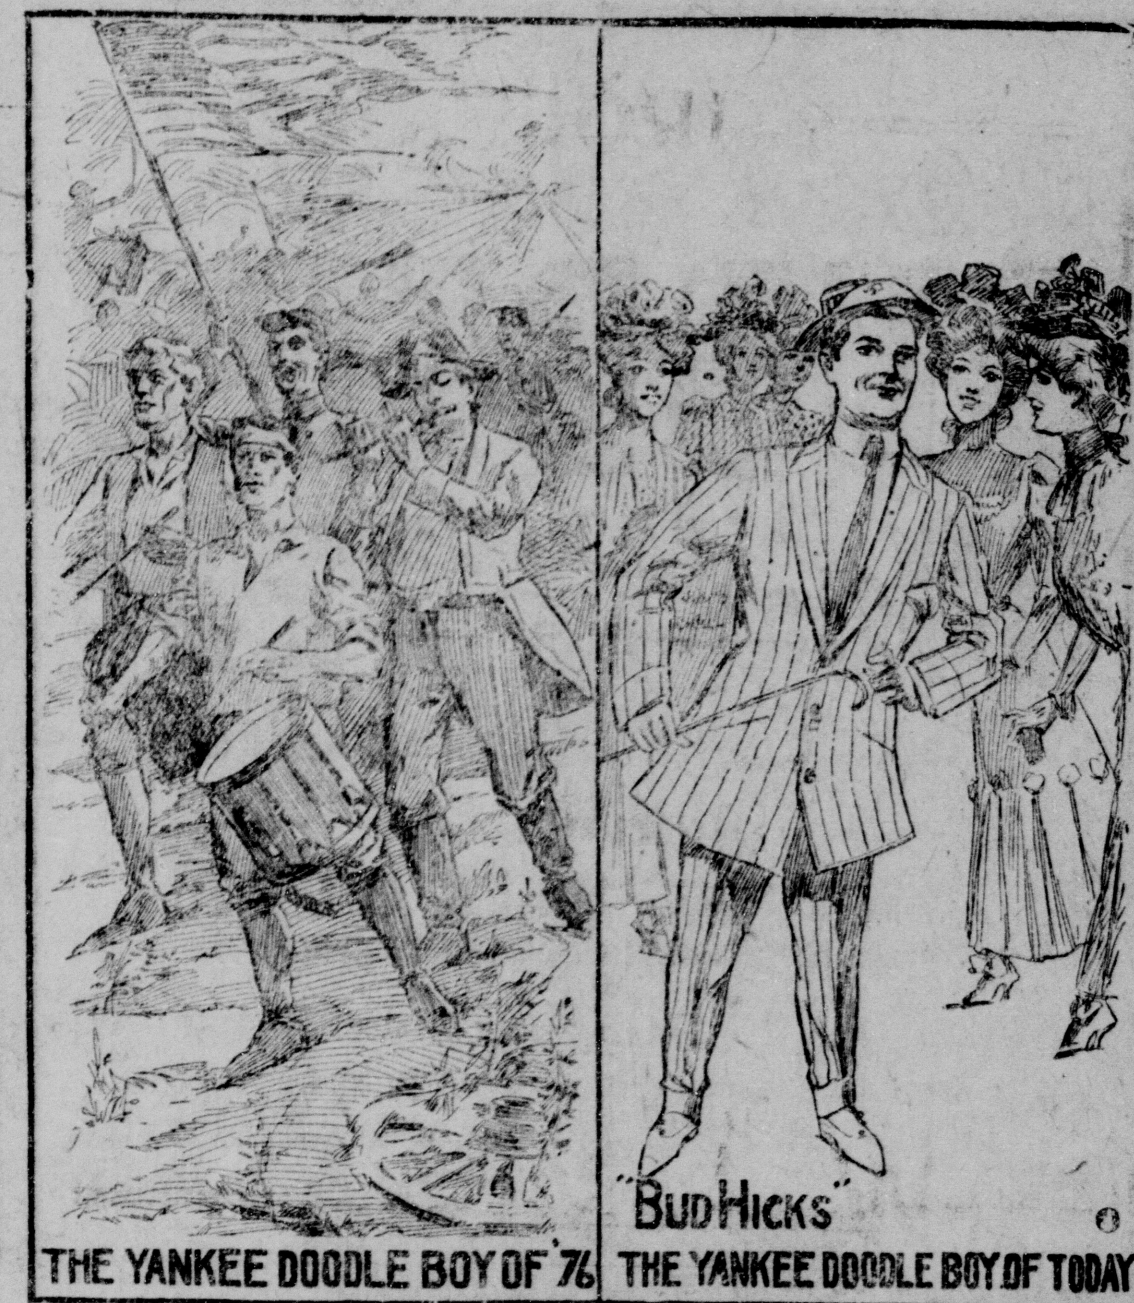

The story is familiar to all literary students, but its power as a vehicle for an impressive moral still exists. Dr. Faustus, an eminent doctor of philosophy, grown old in the study of hidden problems, suddenly curses God and summons to his aid the powers of evil.

They appear in the form of "Mephisto," who presents and places himself at the command of the discouraged philosopher. He promises to Faust youth and a woman's love and in return demands his soul.

Faust finally signs the bond with a drop of his blood.

His transformation to a handsome youth in the first blush of manhood, his meeting with Marguerite, the temptation of the jewel box, the winning of her love and the happiness of the lovers is rapidly presented.

The discovery that the sleeping

gropes furnished by Mephisto and administered by Marguerite to her mother were poison awakens Faust to the realization of the wickedness of the act; he sees Marguerite scorned and at last in prison, and going to her he loosens her chains, but finds her punishment already meted out, for her reason is dethroned.

Then for an instant her consciousness returns; she recognizes her lover, gives him the forgiveness he craves and expires in his arms.

Faust feels himself freed from a great load, but Mephisto appears and, demanding the soul payment promised him, is about to bear him away when the church bells, whose sound always causes the evil one to shrink in terror, peal forth and the curtain falls as Marguerite, garbed in white, is transformed a soul pure.

always sixty inches wide with a floral border, which makes a most pleasing trimming for the Empire skirts and the overbust waists of the season.

The batistes range in price from 25 cents to a dollar a yard, above which prices they are found with embroidered dots, fine bars, stripes of silk and threads and tiny floral designs. One of these had a lemon colored ground with black lines and railing sprays in shadow effects. The batistes are particularly favored as a material for separate and fancy waists.

Here are three attractive waists for afternoon or informal evening gatherings: the first was constructed from a finely striped batiste trimmed with a little—a very little—of a good quality of valenciennes lace, and a yoke and cuffs decorated with a not so elaborate drawn work design; the second waist was of embroidered Swiss which needed little trimming except that which it affords itself; and the last waist was of handkerchief linen having a fine mercedized stripe with her and there a colored dot, for which lace or Swiss insertion will be the best accompaniment.

Mull, madras, Persian lawn, India linen, many of them in decorative designs will also make up prettily into fancy waists on which should be used the finest of laces, hand embroidered, drawn work, or any fancied decoration provided it be fine and dainty enough.

It is to be noted that very few really plain materials are offered, even those called plain are barrel, or embroidered in dots, or satin-striped,

but in the self color. Again others, less plain, have solid grounds between with floral wreaths, which are large this season and wide apart; or they are covered with dots from the size of a polka dot to that of a fifty-cent piece and some of the larger dots or rather spots show a dot or design within itself.

The satin striped materials are exceedingly popular for they allow of many decorations from the goods, such as straps on the bias or crosswise panels or herring bone effects.

For evening wear, dancing frocks, graduating dresses or even the bridesmaid costumes, these silky finished cottons are used. They are shown in such weaves as cotton chiffons, mulls, silk muslins, tissue cloths, dotted Swiss, all of the varieties of lawn, organdies, batistes and the new and beautiful marquisettes.

An attractive material is the mercedized foulard, which has a great measure of the charm and serviceability of the all silk fabric of the same name, and while the silk fabric may be beyond the purse, one of these mercedized effects will give excellent results. Cotton pongees, also mercedized, are fine for traveling and afternoon gowns that must see some hard wear; and they are also very suitable for summer outing coats, giving quite as good style and perhaps more service than the silken texture. Poplins of silk and cotton will be a favorite material for the earlier suits and later on for the separate skirt. All the cotton mercedized poplins are to be found in the colors shown in the silk and wool goods, and if a good weight is chosen, the garment well cut and well made, it will be a useful addition to the wardrobe in lightness, style and a saving to some of your fine wool skirts.

I would strongly advise one of the foulards as a Sunday or afternoon dress to the business girl who can afford but one dress, yet wishes for one that will do good service and yet be summery in effect. It will come in handy next winter for evenings at home or very informal affairs among intimate friends. Choose a medium shade, such as Copenhagen blue, tan or grey, over which is thrown dots or rings or coinspots arranged in striped effect. Once such foulard showed a herring bone effect very indistinct but destroying the smooth surface so unbecoming to some figures; over this surface was a design of large rings within which were a cluster of polka dots.

If a business suit or light weight traveling dress were needed, one of the cotton pongees would be quite the thing. A good style would be a jumper model trimmed with imitation Persian bands. A blue or light mode shade trimmed in one of the mercedized laces in a bright plaid would be a good combination.

The new coats for evening wear are smooth over the shoulders with much fullness below. During the winter they will be made of broad cloth chiffon velvet or silk and are seen in the softest colors as well as in white. The kimono sleeve continues in such coats for they leave an uncrushed sleeve beneath, which is one of the greatest arguments of "being" for the kimono sleeve.

Some new collars are shown in chinchilla and mink with deep rounded effects to the shoulders and are made quite long and flat in front. Some of the wraps are nothing more than long circular capes with loose kimono sleeves, and big silver buttons are used to an attractive look. Muffs are mostly flat and nearly square, but not small.

The regulation coat sleeve is more and more seen in the short coats and is finished with black soutache and a bit of velvet.

Garnet necklaces are being worn, so if an aunt or a grandmother or friend has one of those old-fashioned pieces, long ago used by them, beg it of their goodness for it is one of the things to be desired.

Artificial flowers are used as corsage bouquets or for the hair and some of the "fiber" flowers are almost too real; they are scented with the natural perfume and their method ing beauty alone "gives them away."

Beneath a voile, marquisette and similar materials use a taffeta underskirt, or if the goods mentioned are of the cotton texture use a cotton taffeta. For such fine materials as chiffon, mousseline and organza use the very soft or satin silks.—Catherine Mann-Payzant.

TRAVEL OF THE FUTURE

FROM COUNTRY HOME TO URBAN OFFICE WITHOUT LEAVING YOUR CAR.

TAKING RAILWAY TO THE PEOPLE

President Miller, of New Haven Railway, a Pioneer in the Work—The "Trackless Trolley" That Also Runs on Track.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

New York, Jan. 25.—Most people do not conceive of the much discussed "trackless trolley" as a vehicle which will also run on tracks. But there is a new idea abroad. Vehicles that run through the streets of any town gathering in passengers from their homes and offices and then dashing away at express speed over the tracks of the railway to the next city on the line, there to resume the course of the familiar street car, thus taking people direct from their homes to business destinations without delay or the trouble of transferring from trolley to steam train and back again, are an innovation predicted in the development of American railroading in the near future. This, however, is only one of the many interesting changes in railway operation that are to occur soon, according to Earl Mayo, who writes about a number of the more important in an article which appears in Appleton's Magazine for February.

"Taking the railway to the people"

THE "MESSENGER BOY OF FUTURE FREIGHT HANDLING."

A Trackless Trolley Car Similar to That Being Tried Out in New Haven, With Wheels That Run on Rails or Roadway, and a Storage Battery That Gathers Power From the Wire as it Goes.

is really the phrase to describe the expansion of transportation facilities in the next half century, according to Mr. Mayo.

The process is already well advanced in New England, which is the most thickly populated section of the country, naturally leads the way. It will spread to other parts of the country as the growth in density of population, the increase in cities and towns in close proximity to each other, and the expansion of suburban development continue. Charles S. Mellen, the president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, is the pioneer in this new era of "intense railroading," in the opinion of Mr. Mayo, who describes the various new plans of operation which Mr. Mellen is putting into effect to bring the railway closer to the people.

The two mechanical factors of primary importance in effecting the changes referred to are given as electricity and the T-rail. The importance of the former comes from the fact that cars can run singly or in trains so that much more frequent operation over more varied routes becomes possible. With the demonstration that T-rails can be laid in city streets without interference with the use of the roadway by wagons, it becomes possible to operate the same cars in public thoroughfares, and where high speed is necessary, over private rights of way.

The combination of the two makes it certain that in future the suburbanite will be able to take a car near his home in the country town that will convey him without change to a point convenient to his office in the city, reducing very considerably the time of the journey as made at present and also lessening the expense.

In thinly inhabited districts, the Appleton's article points out, where steam roads would find it unprofitable to operate, the railway will be taken to the people through the medium of electric "feeders," such as the elaborate system of lines proposed by Mr. Mellen in Western Massachusetts at a cost of $10,000,000. Such lines can be run profitably only as a part of a strong and comprehensive system of transportation, where they will benefit the system as a whole by the growth of the traffic they create.

Another interesting project of the future will be the operation of an interchangeable steam and electric service over the same tracks, the electric trains taking care of local business, while steam continues to

but also interfere with the operation of fast through freights, resulting in the congestion of traffic, that has been so much complained of by shippers and railway men alike.

"All over Southern New England," says Mr. Mayo, "the trolley express is being introduced to take the place of the lumbering way freight, and of the wagon express which was able to compete with it, but is now being abandoned before the competition of electricity."

There are several of these trolley express lines operating from New Haven. One of them runs over a loop which extends northward to Waterbury Freight moving between these two cities by steam train formerly required from two to four days to reach its destination, most of the time being consumed in stop overs on sidings. The trolley express cars make two trips in each direction daily, requiring about two hours for the journey, and goods delivered at the freight station in New Haven in time for the early morning trips are on the shelves of merchants in Waterbury by the time their doors are open to customers. When trade is able to flow so easily and rapidly between business centers its volume is certain to increase and thus a given territory is made to yield a larger traffic crop in freight as well as in passengers.

The electric express car, of course, is not confined to cities in its operations. It takes the farmers' milk and fruit and garden produce to the city market and delivers goods direct to the door of the cross-roads store away from the railway line. Since it is a much easier matter to stop an electric car than a freight train, the trolley express can pick up shipments at any point along the line—a great convenience to the farmer.

In many respects the most remarkable development described in this exposition of new railroading is the "trackless trolley," which Mr. Mayo describes as "the messenger boy of future freight handling business."

The trackless trolley in appearance," he says, "is a combination of a motor truck and a trolley car. It has wheels the tread of which is unusually wide and with just sufficient cavity to hold them on the rails, so that while they can be operated on ordinary track they can be run also on the pavements or improved highways without injury. The trackless trolley possesses the advantage of being able to run out along the trolley tracks in any industrial community, gathering power into its storage battery from the feed wire as it runs, and at any point it can turn off into the highway to run alongside the loading platform of any manufacturing plant, or down an alley to collect freight direct from the doors of a warehouse, returning in the same way to the central freight station. The storage batteries when fully charged will carry the car twenty-five miles, so that it can cover a considerable territory independent of tracks and wires.

"From this point it will be but a step to the handling of all trucking business having a large volume by the agency of the consolidated transportation system, as is now done to a great extent by the English railways. There is no question but that with the mechanical improvements certain to be realized within a few years, including the general use of motor trucks, it will be possible for transportation companies to perform this service more cheaply than it is now done by separate trucking concerns or by the manufacturers themselves. At the present time the New Haven receives freight from any point at any of its numerous piers in New York City. Under this plan the manufacturer finds it necessary to pay for trucking his goods only a few blocks, saving the cost of long hauls through the congested streets of the city. A still greater economy will be introduced when transportation companies have their own mechanical tractors running on established routes through the cities, collecting goods to their central freight stations, and handling every shipment from the door of factory or shop to the hands of the consumer through their own agencies."

Many other improvements are pointed out as certain to come in the near future. They are all part of what the writer denominates "intensive railroading"—the application to the transportation field of the same principles used by the farmer who practices intensive agriculture. They have in view the same object, that is the securing of a larger crop of traffic by the careful and scientific cultivation of a restricted area. They are all working toward what Mr. Mayo describes as "an ideal that will be realized only when transportation facilities are placed practically at every man's door."

Hot pancakes are all right, but hot biscuits made of the "Pride of Perry" flour are better.

ILLNESS FROM COLD COACH

Central of Georgia Railroad Paid Woman $1,000.

Rome, Ga., Jan. 25.—Miss Ida Benjamin, aged 19 years, of this city, has received from the Central of Georgia railroad a check for $1,000, because the young woman caught cold while traveling in one of the coaches of the railroad on Christmas eve of 1906.

Miss Benjamin traveled from Atlanta to Macon by the Central and the coach in which she was seated was not heated. The temperature was so chilly that repeated protests were made to the conductor, but the latter did nothing to warm the passengers. As a result of the cold coach, Miss Benjamin contracted a cold, which troubled her for months. She brought suit and was given a verdict.

The railroad gave notice of appeal, but reconsidered, and settled by sending the girl a check for $1,000.

The finest coffee substitute ever made has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis. You don't have to boil it twenty or thirty minutes. "Made in a minute," says the doctor. "Health Coffee" is really the closest coffee imitation ever produced. Not a grain of real coffee in it either. Health Coffee imitation is made from pure toasted cereals or grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—were he to unknowingly drink it for coffee. R. C. Dolph & Co.

TO BE A SWELL WEDDING

THE SZECHENYI-VANDERBILT NUPTIALS AT NOON TOMORROW.

IS ANOTHER INTERNATIONAL TIE-UP

The Duc de Chaulnes-Shonts Marriage Three Weeks From Yesterday— "Bill" Haywood Named as Presidential Timber.

New York, Jan. 25.—Um t-a-r-a! Di diddle dum! Clash the sybals and beat the drum! Pound the ivory keys of the piano until the welkin rings with Mendelssohn marches and all the earth breathes tenderly an angelic acclaim. For lo, the bridegroom cometh, and all the world loves a lover, and all that sort of rot. Surely, this Szechenyi-Vanderbilt wedding is a grand opportunity for those gifted society writers who spew emotional bilgewater over clean white paper and thus satisfy the yearnings of the hot polloi to learn the inner secrets of the lives of the inordinately wealthy and the inanely aristocratic.

Ah, 'twill be a grand show, my masters. Twelve million dollars, representing the toil and sweat and blood of thousands of American "sons of Martha," bartered over the counter of a dilettante daughter of Mary for a title that represents nothing so much as centuries of oppression of the Hungarian peasantry. Viewing such a spectacle, the most conservative and least melodious voiced of American citizens might be pardoned if he celebrated the glad occasion by packing a red flag through the streets and singing the Hymne des Marseillais.

This "purely love affair" will have its ecstatic culmination at noon Monday, and we are informed that the ceremony will be "the most notable that has taken place in New York for many years." The drawing-room of the Vanderbilt mansion at Fifth avenue and Fifty-eighth street will be the scene of the wedding. This room is of Louis XVI style, in white and gold, with artistic panels picked out in gold. Mr. N. J. Davelle, rector of St. Patrick's cathedral, will perform the ceremony. Two choirs from the cathedral and Nathan Franko's orchestra of fifty pieces will furnish the heavenly melody for the auspicious event. The entire staff of the Austro-Hungarian embassy will come from Washington, clad in full regalia, to attend the wedding. Count Szechenyi will play the part of the happy bridegroom clad in the spectacular uniform of the Austro-Hungarian Imperial Hussars, including scarlet trousers, a blue coat and much gold braid, and wearing a jeweled-hilted sword in a gold and silver scabbard. There will be scores of valuable presents and the carefully selected guests will be given a breakfast in the grand dining room, surrounded by magnificent specimens of the paintings and sculptural works of men of genius, who spent their lives in producing beautiful works of art to make a Vanderbilt holiday.

A cordon of New York's "finest" will surround the Vanderbilt mansion on the day of the wedding. This action will be taken to prevent a possible repetition of the disgraceful incidents which marked the marriage of Miss Goelet and the duke of Roxburgh, when the wedding party was mobbed by a crowd of excited women, who later invaded the church and carried away all the portable decorations as souvenirs.

Another International Wedding. Three weeks from today New York will have another international wedding, when Miss Theodora Shonts the Chicago-born daughter of the former commissioner of the Panama canal, will become a duchess of the decadent and discredited nobility of the French republic. The consideration has not been made public, but it is certain that Papa Shonts will find it necessary to make a financial settlement upon his handsome but dissolute prospective son-in-law. That Mr. Shonts, the hard-headed and successful man of affairs and patriotic American, has found the Duc de Chaulnes a bitter pill to swallow, is known by all his associates. But, given an ambitious wife and a romantic daughter, what could the poor man do? Nothing more nor less than he has done—to open his money bags and say, "Bless you, my children," with a transparent affectation of sincerity.

Thousands Face Starvation. The poor have their troubles, as well as the rich of this big city. Statisticians estimate that 175,000 men and women are now out of employment and are wandering the streets of New York, facing starvation. One of the most pitiful cases of extreme poverty yet reported was that of Eugene Haile, a young German composer and musician, who came near forfeiting his life in order that his wife might be provided for and that he could continue work on an opera which he hopes will place him in the front ranks of musical composers. Haile resides in a little flat in West Eighty-third street. Some time ago, the fever of ambition firing his veins, he abandoned his music classes and began the composition of an opera founded on "Viola d'Amore," permission having been granted by the author, Hans von Welzogen, the distinguished German poet.

Then the young composer gave evidence of devotion such as is seldom in evidence in modern life. Realizing that his savings would not be sufficient to support two during the period required for the production of the opera, he gave all his money to his wife to provide for herself and baby, telling her that he had made arrangements to take his meals with a friend. Carrying out this pretence, he left the flat at meal times, returning to resume his work with the feverish intensity of a man whose life depended upon the issue and who was even then slowly dying of starvation. For days and weeks he lived with scarcely a mouthful of food, until he collapsed and was taken to a hospital. Careful attention and nursing brought the composer back to life. Now, aided by Heinrich Meyn, a wealthy artist, he is pursuing his work under more favorable conditions.

Nothing is needful to complete this little romance of real life but the completion and success of the opera to which Haile came near sacrificing his life. Perhaps that last chapter may be added in the future.

For President—Bill Haywood. A man who not many months ago occupied a prison cell, charged with being the most ruthless arch-conspirator of the century, recently faced a New York audience as the logical candidate for the presidency of the United States. Eugene V. Debs, the Indiana orator who has twice led the socialist "hosts" to defeat, has apparently retired from the field in favor of William D. Haywood, who was acquitted of complicity in the murder of ex-Governor Steunenberg after Harry Orchard had accredited him with being the inspiring force in the assassination of scores of men during the western labor war. Now the accredited mouthpiece of the Western Federation of Miners,

Haywood, who was acquitted of complicity in the murder of ex-Governor Steunenberg after Harry Orchard had accredited him with being the inspiring force in the assassination of scores of men during the western labor war. Now the accredited mouthpiece of the Western Federation of Miners, Haywood is touring the country as the acknowledged standard-bearer of the social democracy, whose nomination for the presidency is a foregone conclusion. Whatever may be thought of Haywood's party and policy, those who see and hear him recognize a man of great force of character. Lacking the scholarly brilliancy of the French-American Debs, he is yet in possession of a wide knowledge that is startling in one who has spent the greater part of his life in the mines. The days and weeks and months spent in the Boise jail were fruitful of wisdom for this chosen leader of the "proletariat." That period afforded him the leisure for a protracted course in science, literature, sociology, economics, history and law, and he improved it to the utmost. To the knowledge of human nature in the rough, gained in the western mines and as a leader of that most militant of labor organizations, the Western Federation of Miners, Haywood has added the polish and culture that comes of reading many books.

He is a serious man, this stocky, heavy-set son of toil, and bulldog determination is reflected in his single eye and in his square-jawed face, and his bulky, sinewy form suggests the strength of a giant and the hardihood of the pioneer. He does not consider the presidential nomination of the "red card" party as a joke. With Fabian socialism, drawing-room reform and kid-gloved revolution he has nothing in common. He gives the impression of a man of action, of one who does things. It may be offered as the "one best bet" of the day that Bill Haywood will never occupy the presidential chair at Washington. In the eyes of most of his fellow citizens, desirable and otherwise, he is riding a nightmare after nothing. At that, he will doubtless ride a good race, and be cheered in the stretch by more Americans than have ever before applauded a socialistic presidential candidate.

Liquor Dealers on Strike. The strike of the tenement dwellers of the east side was but a trivial thing compared with the latest calamity that threatened New York. A dryness like unto that of the desert of Sahara will envelop the metropolis, unless the brewers recede from their demand for an increase of $1 a barrel in the price of beer. As an alternative, the doors of the saloons will be locked and the white-robed angels of Bacchus will depart and be known in their accustomed haunts no more. And the convivial New Yorker, unless he be of the wine-bibbing or cocktail-consuming class, will be deprived of his accustomed beverage and, perforce, go sober to his bed. 'Tis a dreary prospect offered by this threatened strike of the saloon-keepers, and, like most modern calamities, it is due to the wicket and grafting machinations of a "trust." The alleged combination of New York brewers is held responsible for the present crisis and their nefarious tactics may become the subject of a legislative investigation. If it has no other result, the incident may supply inspiration to the prohibitionists. The liquor dealers have declared solemnly against a business devoid of profit. Moral deprive them of profit and the traffic will be effectually squelched. Easy, isn't it?

PREPARE FOR CONVENTION

Democrats Will Have Everything in Readiness at Denver.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 25.—There will be no lack of telegraph wires by which to spread the glad tidings of the nomination of Bryan when the democratic national convention meets here next summer.

The telegraph companies and the various newsgathering agencies are already at work, preparing for the many additional wires which will be necessary to handle the business. Connection will be made with the main Pacific trunk lines of the telegraph companies and railroad wires will also be pressed into service during the convention.

An army of linemen is already here to install the plant in the auditorium and string the additional wires. It is expected that not less than 300 newspaper representatives will be here from all over the country, and there will be keen competition between the big news associations and newspapers.

HIDDEN IN THE GRANARY

Was the Hoard of Sadler, Who Starved Himself into Insanity

Youngstown, Ohio, Jan. 25.—The fortune of L. Sadler, who it is alleged starved himself into insanity at New Buffalo, has been recovered. It consisted of $2,255 and was found hidden in the granary.

After he was taken into custody he said he would show the officers where he had hidden it, but when taken to the farm he would not do so. He is now at the Massillon asylum.

The personal effects were sold by his administrator, Ralph Beard, and the contents of the granary was purchased by Charles Whitmore, who sifted through the grain and found the money. The sale was attended by 600 people from all over the county, all eager to bid on the property.

CHILDREN WHO WORK AT 3

TINY TENEMENT TOILERS IN NEW YORK TOO YOUNG FOR KINDERGARTEN.

A DEPLORABLE STATE OF AFFAIRS

Clothing, Flowers, Etc., Supplied to the Whole Country From Workshops Which Threaten Health of All.

Copyright 1908 by 'Charities and The Commons,' New York.

No manufacturer of artificial flowers in New York City can employ in his factory any child under fourteen years of age, but he may give out work to a family in whose tenement rooms flowers are made by six children aged two and one-half, five, eight, ten, fourteen and sixteen years. Angelo, aged fourteen years, cannot work legally in a factory until he reaches a higher grade in school, nor can he work at home during school hours when school is in session, but his little sister, Marie, aged three years, because she is not old enough to go to school, and because the home work law contains no prohibition of child labor, may help her mother pull bastings and sew on buttons.

A public school teacher notices that Eva and Mary R., aged eleven and ten years, are pale and undernourished, but although the compulsory education law upholds her in requiring their attendance in school during school hours, she cannot prevent their making flowers at home from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 of 10 at night.

Many good citizens would demand the prosecution of a manufacturer who employed in his factory Tony, aged four years; Marie, aged nine; Rose, aged ten; Louisa, aged eleven; Josephine, aged thirteen years. For such an offense the manufacturer might be fined $100 for each child under fourteen. Yet public opinion has not raised an effective protest against the same employer when he turns these children's homes into a branch of his factory, and gives them work even the smallest child in the family joins through long hours, under a necessity as imperious in its demand for the constant work and attention of the child as would be the commands of the factory foreman.

That child labor in some form is to be found in almost every state is clearly proven by reports of state factory inspectors and volunteer organizations, and by the prohibitive laws which have been passed by state legislatures in all parts of the country.

In New York the greatest number of child workers are in the tenement homes, where little tots three years of age have been found bastarding paper flowers, sewing buttons on cards, and drawing bastings from "pants." This sweatshop work is not New York's alone, for New York is the center of the clothing trade and millinery trade. Tired children, sometimes ill of contagious diseases, it has been found, work on the ready made clothes, the artificial flowers and the cards of buttons—to take only three instances—which are sold from one end of the country to the other.

New York has a child labor law, and the state department of labor has a staff of inspectors to enforce it—but it doesn't "work." The law James forty-one articles which manufacturers may not give out for home work until—mark the word—until a tenement house has been granted a license by the department of health and the tenement house department.

The tenants want the work, they need the money desperately, and if the tenement landlord meets the sanitary requirements for this license, women and children may work uncounted hours for starvation wages. The children must go to school; out of school hours they may be forced by their parents and dire want to work crouched over a mess of colored tissue paper and a sticky paste pot, under a dim lamp, without ventilation, in a clutter of food and clothes and dirt, far into the night.

The women may work ten hours a day, or a total of sixty hours a week, in a factory; in their flats they toil from daybreak to midnight for a pittance, provided only that the house meet the formal requirements of the law in plumbing and fire escapes and cubic air space—requirements so low that they scarcely exist outside of the poorest homes away from New York.

Miss Mary Van Kleeck, who, with several other young women, has recently made an investigation of some typical blocks of tenement houses not picked out because they were usually bad, found 558 child workers, of whom 406 were girls and 153 boys, all under 16 years of age. One was only 3 years old; three were aged 4; twenty-one aged 5; twenty-three aged 6; forty-four aged 7; forty-five aged 8; seventy-six aged 9; seventy-one aged 10; sixty-two aged 11; ninety aged 12; seventy-six aged 13; forty-six from 14 to 16. Of the whole number 491 were attending school, but working at home after school hours. Twenty-three were under age—too young even for a kindergarten, but old enough to work.

Miss Van Kleeck found it difficult to classify the earnings or the hours of the workers. In some families there was dire need and the work went on all day and much of the night; in others it was for a few hours only to supplement the earnings of the father.

Some worked because it was the custom.

tom of the neighborhood; some to save money. A good many, it was found, belonged to families which have fallen far below a decent standard of living and were from time to time, or regularly, receiving relief from a charitable society. Taking the maximum earnings, during the rush season of trade, such cases as these were found:

One woman and one child, making 120 pairs of children's hose supporters; woman works all day, child after school hours, and both until 11 or 12 o'clock at night; woman furnishes machine and part of the thread; gross earnings, 50 to 75 cents a day.

One woman and five children, branching apple blossoms; in a day do eight dozen sprays at 8 cents a dozen; earnings, 64 cents.

One woman and two children, finishing trousers; in a day do ten pairs at 5 cents a pair; earnings, 50 cents.

One woman working all day and one child, aged 10, working after school, both until 1 a. m., making six gross white roses (seven pieces in each flower) at 6 cents per gross; earnings, 36 cents per day.

A large proportion of the children found at work were of foreign parentage, Italians and Jews leading. This connects the home work problem directly with the problem of immigration. In his report to the industrial commission, Prof. John R. Commons, of the University of Wisconsin, stated that in legislation against tenement house work "the American states are dealing practically with the subject of immigration in its most urgent and threatening aspect."

Two races are the ones mainly affected—the Hebrews and the Italians. The Italian woman, working in her tenement, has absorbed 95 per cent of the so-called home finishing of New York City. Finishing amounts to about one-fourth of the work on a garment, but owing to the low wages paid in this class of work the price is about one-seventh of the price paid for the entire garment. The Italian home finisher works for about one-third the price formerly paid other nationalities for the same work.

The possibility of home work in an apartment where there is disease—Miss Van Kleeck found illustrated by a family in a house which had passed the license examination for one year, but in which the next year was finishing clothing in the room where the oldest daughter lay dying of tuberculosis. In another were found children helping their mother finish overcoats, under which they slept at night. The children had scabbies (itch). There were many other instances.

Rounding up her findings, Miss Van Kleeck states that the chief trouble is that the work carried on in the homes is so numerous and so scattered that an army of inspectors would be required to deal with it. Child labor in factories is easily prohibited by simply excluding the child from the building, but in the home the separation of the child from the work is impossible, and the child's employment may easily be concealed.

Home manufacture profits no one but the manufacturer, to whom it offers an escape from factory responsibilities. Instead of organizing a regular staff of workers, he utilizes the work of foreign born workers and their children. He locates his shop near their home and during the rush season finds at his very door a sufficient force of workers willing to toil all night to finish a hurry order. He escapes liability for employing children under age; he saves in rent and light and power.

To the worker, home manufacture means unlimited hours of work, the employment of children and the turning of the already crowded living rooms into a branch of a nearby factory, for an employer who pays less than a living wage.

For the consumer, home work involves the danger of infection from goods made in crowded living apartments.

The nature of this system of industry is such that its evils are its essence, is Miss Van Kleeck's conclusion. It can not be regulated, for to abolish the evil is to abolish the system.

When the people of Illinois attempted to "regulate" sweating by an eight-hour maximum work day in sweatshops, they were consciously instituting an attempt to abolish "sweating." They reasoned that this system could not exist with short hours of labor, for an eight-hour day requires large work rooms, good sanitation and healthy, skillful workmen to make it profitable.

"Sweating" is the decadent branch of any trade. No one who has visited the homes of women and children engaged in tenement manufacture, and has realized the inefficiency, the unhealthfulness and the low standard of living of this class of workers, can fail to understand what is meant by the "downward trend of competition." Absolute prohibition of manufacture carried on living rooms is the only solution.

Long-Winded Preachers.

The seventeenth-century puritan preachers talked for two hours or more, not "by the clock," but by the hour-glass. At least one of them turned the glass to humorous account. He found himself no further than the middle of the sermon when the sands had run out. "Drunkness" was his subject, and, reversing the horologe, "Let's have another glass," said he. Sir Roger L'Estrange tells of a parish clerk who sat patiently until the preacher was three-quarters through his second glass, and the majority of his hearers had quietly left the church. Rising at a convenient pause, he asked the minister to close the church door when he had done, "and push the key under it, as he and the few that remained were about to retire."

Pointer for Husbands.

When you have married your wife, you would think you were got upon a hilltop, and might begin to go downward by an easy slope. But you have only ended courting to begin marriage. Falling in love and winning love are often difficult tasks to overbearing and rebellious spirits; but to keep in love is also a business of some importance, to which both man and wife must bring kindness and goodwill. The true love story commences at the altar, when there lies before the married pair a most beautiful contest of wisdom and generosity, and a lifelong struggle toward an unattainable ideal. Unattainable? Aye, surely unattainable, from the very fact that they are two instead of one.—R. L. Stevenson.

SKELETON TELLS OF FATE

Bones of Missing Man Found Picked Clean by Wolves.

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. 25.—Through the finding of a skeleton on the plains northwest of Edmonton, Alberta province, it is believed that the mystery of the disappearance of John M. Burgess, a Spearfish pioneer, is solved.

Burgess left here last summer to establish a Canadian bank at Edmonton. Three months ago he wrote that he was leaving on a long horseback ride, and he had never been heard from.

The skeleton was picked clean by wolves and was found on the trail Burgess took. Nearby lay an empty rifle and five wolf carcasses, indicating the struggle for life.

MAY SPEND $12,000.000

THE CHICAGO RAILWAYS COMPANY WILL BETTER ITS LINES.

MADE SALE UNDER A FORECLOSURE

Must Rebuild Ninety Miles of Single Track Within the Next Three Years—Also to Operate 1,200 New Cars.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Under a decree of foreclosure ordered by Judge Peter S. Grosscup, of the United States circuit court, the properties of the Chicago Union Traction Co., the North Chicago Street Railway Co. and the West Chicago Street Railway Co., were sold at auction at noon today.

The Chicago Railways Co., the holding company organized to take over the franchise voted by the city council some months ago, was the only bidder. The foreclosure sale and the purchase of the properties by the new corporation marks the end of the traction warfare which has been waged in Chicago for several years.

The sale was merely a form to comply with the plan for a rehabilitation of the traction system. The Chicago Railways Co. will give its securities in exchange for the stock of the old companies. The lease of the new corporation on all the lines of street railway operated by it will expire on Feb. 2, 1927.

The sale was ordered by the courts under the consolidated foreclosure suits of the Central Trust Co. and the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, and the Fidelity Trust Co. of Philadelphia.

Following the acceptance on Feb. 1 of the ordinance by which the Chicago Railways Co. will come into possession of the traction properties affected by the sale, the company will immediately begin the reconstruction and improvement of the lines and service at a cost of $12,000,000. Within the next three years it must rebuild at least ninety miles of single track and put into operation not less than 1,200 new cars.

Nearly 20,000 people, creditors, bondholders and stockholders of the old Union Traction Co. are directly affected by the sale, while the 2,000,000 people of Chicago will also benefit by a bigger and better traction system. The sale today was held under the direction of H. V. Bishop, who was appointed a special master commissioner by the court.

If a cough once gets into your system it acts on every muscle and fibre of the body and makes you ache all over. It especially affects the intestines and makes you constipated, so in order to get rid of a cold thoroughly and without delay you should not take anything that will tend to constipate. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts upon the bowels and thereby drives the cold out of the system. It contains no opiates—it is pleasant to take and is highly recommended for children. Sold by Arlington Pharmacy.

"vegetable prescription" many times within the past two weeks. The announcement of this simple, harmless mixture has certainly accomplished much in reducing the great many

Another well-known druggist asks us to continue the announcement of the prescription. It is doing so much real good here, he continues, that it would be a crime not to do so. It can not be repeated too often, and further states many cases of remarkable cures wrought.

The following is the prescription, of simple ingredients, making a harmless, inexpensive compound, which any person can prepare by shaking well in a bottle: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Any first class drug store will sell this small amount of each ingredient, and the dose for adults is one teaspoonful to be taken after each meal and again at bedtime. There is enough here to last for one week, if taken according to directions. Good results will be apparent from the first few doses.

GROWN WEARY OF LLOYD

A MISSOURI CONGRESSMAN IS ASKED TO STEP DOWN AND OUT.

DEMAND HAS CAUSED A SENSATION

Former Adherent of Representative From First Declares He Has Served Long Enough and Should Quit.

Macon, Mo., Jan. 25.—The Macon Times-Democrat, a paper which for ten years has loyally stood by Congressman James T. Lloyd, of the First district, in an editorial in its issue of yesterday calls upon that gentleman to step down and out and to give somebody else a chance. The Times-Democrat says:

"The Times-Democrat believes that James T. Lloyd has served long enough in congress. He has been there for ten years, and the democracy of the First congressional district has certainly been good to him. It has nominated him five times without opposition, and this is a high compliment to a man who could claim no more than being a democrat and a respectable citizen.

"During these ten years this paper has been one of Mr. Lloyd's strongest supporters, never believing him to be brilliant, but confident he was honest and conscientious. The First congressional district is the best in the state. She has numbers of good citizens and able democrats who are just as much entitled to congressional honors as Mr. Lloyd. In fact, we believe there are a number who are more able to represent the district than Mr. Lloyd, and one of the cardinal principles of the democratic party, as declared in the national convention, is 'rotation in office'.

"When we come to examine Mr. Lloyd's record we find that he has introduced but few bills for the benefit of the public. He has been there long enough to become familiar with the 'dignity' of the house. Mark Twain says that 'when a man becomes 70 years old he ought to have a right to say and do as he pleases in this country.' We believe after a man has served ten years in congress he ought to be a kind of privileged character, and have a right to introduce bills and talk legislation. Mr. Lloyd must recognize that the democratic party has paid him all it owes him.

"Let us have a new congressman for the First congressional district. 'Give the boys a chance.'

S.S.S. MADE FROM ROOTS AND HERBS

A SAFE AND RELIABLE BLOOD PURIFIER

In the time of our forefathers the forests and fields were the only laboratories from which they could procure their medicines. They searched out and compounded the different roots, herbs and barks into remedies, many of which have been handed down to succeeding generations, and continuously used with satisfactory results. Among the very best of these old time preparations is S. S. S., a medicine made entirely from roots, herbs and barks, in such combination as to make it the greatest of all blood purifiers. This absolute vegetable purity of S. S. S. makes it the one medicine that may be used without fear of harmful results in any way. Most blood medicines on the market contain mercury, potash, or some other strong mineral. These act with bad effect on the system, upsetting the stomach, interfering with the digestion, affecting the bowels, and when used for a prolonged period of time often cause salivation. No such effects ever result from the use of S. S. S., and it may be taken by children as safely as by older people. For Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Malaria, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, and all other troubles caused by impure or poisoned blood, S. S. S. is a perfect remedy. It goes down into the circulation and removes all poisons, impurities, humors or unhealthy matter, and makes the blood pure and rich. It eliminates every particle of the taint of inherited blood trouble, purifies and strengthens the weak, deteriorated blood, and establishes the foundation for good health. S. S. S. is Nature's Blood Purifier, and its many years of successful service, with a steadily increasing demand for it, is the best evidence of its value in all blood troubles.
